READ NEW TESTAMENT DAILY IN YOUR HOME

Goodspeed Translation, in Present Day Speech, in Daily Press

Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Read the New Testament Through in the Glendale DailyPress

THE Glendale Daily Press, starting with Monday's edition, will publish each day an instalment of Professor Goodspeed's translation of the New Testament which will be continued until the entire New Testament is printed.

Never before has a daily newspaper published the Bible in instalments. The move is a radical departure in journalism. The Glendale Daily Press has secured the exclusive rights to the publication in Glendale, feeling that its readers would much appreciate the opportunity of reading the daily installments.

THIS version of Professor Goodspeed is a scholarly, reverent, readable, authentic translation from the original Greek. The Scriptures have not been changed, only put into every-day language which can be easily understood and enjoyed by the entire family. It is the story of Christ in every-day language. It will mean that many thousands of people who have taken no interest in the world's greatest book will become readers of the Bible, will enjoy it and be thrilled by its powerful lessons told in plain newspaper style. In publishing this modern version of the New Testament it is not the purpose of the Glendale Daily Press to in any way detract from the present King James version, the language of which is extremely beautiful, and which offers thousands something that no substitute could take the place of.

BEFORE we secured the translation for exclusive publication in this city we sought the counsel of the religious leaders of Glendale and with only two exceptions, we were assured hearty approval and support.

We urge all of our readers to start with Monday's issue and read the daily instalments. You will not only profit much in the reading but enjoy every word of it.

YOU will have to hurry if you have not yet purchased your ticket for the performance to be given as a benefit to the families of the two victims of the late fire. Only three days before November 6 which is the time set for the performance.

According to present reports about one hundred tickets remain unsold and as the demand towards the last is liable to increase we say again you will have to hurry.

EVERY family in Glendale should be represented at the performance for every home is surely, to greater or less extent under lasting obligation to the families of the men who gave their lives while protecting our homes. This testimonial should also be heartily supported by Eagle Rock, Tujunga, La Crescenta, Montrose and in fact all towns who were menaced by the fire. They share the obligation with Glendale and they will without doubt do their share in helping sell every seat in the house. There are no expenses to be borne, everything being donated, no complimentary admissions, and 763 seats sold means $3,815.00.

SCIOTS HEAR GRATIFYING REPORTS FROM CIRCUS

Reports of returns from the Sciot circus were highly gratifying to the 158 members who attended the regular meeting of the Glendale pyramid Friday night in Odd Fellows' hall. They proved the circus a success financially and otherwise which had placed enough money in the pyramid's treasury to buy uniforms for band members and send them to the convention to be held in San Diego the middle of November. An enthusiastic vote of thanks was given the circus committee and especially Toparch Bennett. The session, which was a stated meeting devoted to business, was followed by a big feed.

FOOTHILL IMPROVEMENT ASS'N. MEETS MONDAY

Regular monthly meeting of the Glendale Foothill Improvement association will be held on Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Grand View school with Alex Mitchell presiding. The meeting has been set for Monday night instead of Tuesday as on the latter night will be given the big benefit entertainment for the families of the fire victims.

THE WEATHER
[By Associated Press]

Southern California: Fair tonight and Sunday; light northeasterly winds.

HIGH JUNIORS WIN OVER SENIORS IN DEBATE

According to the Victors, Nation Must Not Enter World Court

Juniors of Glendale high are highly elated over the victory achieved by their representatives, Mary Jo Phillips, Wendell Beauchamp and Bonnie Jean Lockwood, in the inter-class debate at Glendale high Friday night against the seniors, Arden Gingery, Horace Anderson and Paul Cunningham.

The question was: "Resolved, that the United States should enter the world court." Judges were City Manager Reeves, Mr. Turrill, and Mrs. James S. Mullen of Lincoln high. So close was the contest that their decisions were divided, two voting for the juniors and one for seniors, who presented the affirmative.

In commenting on the affair, Mr. Reeves said:

"I have always felt that no training offered by our public schools is of more lasting value than training in public speaking which will enable young men and women to get to their feet and express themselves in public clearly and logically without embarrassment. No matter what avocation they may follow, it will always be of value. It was very gratifying to me to learn the attention this branch of education is receiving in Glendale high and to be informed that the school has been victorious in nearly all the big debates in which it has entered. One of the young women speaking last night was fairly brilliant and one of the young men I predict will some day be a great orator."

Big delegations from the two classes were present and assigned to separate sections of the auditorium. They rooted loyally for their representatives and provided an inspiring audience. Many parents came out and the faculty was well represented. Ronald West, president of the student body, was the presiding officer.

JEWISH SISTERHOOD'S REGULAR MEETING HELD

Regular meeting of the Glendale Jewish Sisterhood held Friday at the Egyptian Village cafe proved to be a very interesting session. Mrs. W. E. Kramer was the hostess. The program included musical selections by Julius Kranz, violinist, who gave one of his own compositions, "Soliloquy" and Mozart's "Minuet." Allen Kramer, ten year old pupil of Mr. Kranz' also gave a selection. There were two vocal numbers by Mrs. Viereck, "Wake Up" (Phillips) and "The Lark." Mrs. E. W. Kinney also gave several vocal numbers, playing her own accompaniment. Mrs. Gertrude Erb accompanied Mr. Kranz and Mrs. Viereck.

An article on "The Book of Genesis," was read by Miss Eva Daniels. Following the program a short business session was held, with Mrs. Goodman Phillips, chairman, presiding. Reports were heard from various committees. The society is planning to give a musical on November 27 at the home of Mrs. E. W. Kinney, to raise money for philanthropic work. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Tyrell, 421 West California avenue.

PARLIAMENTARY LAW CLUB MET FRIDAY MORNING

At the meeting of the Parliamentary Law club of Glendale, held at 10 o'clock Friday morning at the Glendale library on Harvard street, officers of the organization were installed by Mrs. W. E. Evans, federation secretary of the Tuesday Afternoon club, as follows: Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, president; Mrs. O. H. Spradling, vice president; Mrs. Grace Barhite, secretary; Mrs. Julian Bennett, treasurer; Mrs. R. N. Stryker, auditor; Mrs. A. H. Brown, parliamentarian; Mrs. C. H. Whitney, historian. Mrs. Evans gave a talk in which she outlined the necessary steps for the club to take to join the district, state and national federation. The next meting of the club will be held on November 16.

CHAUTAUQUA LECTURER TO SPEAK FOR BIBLE SECTION

Rev. Thomas Lutman, well known Chautauqua lecturer, will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the Bible Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club on Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. There will also be a motion picture, "From the Mountains to the Sea." The public is invited.

INAUGURATES A HIGHER KIND OF JOURNALISM

Daily Press to Publish the New Testament as a Serial

Marking a new departure in western journalism, the Glendale Daily Press will publish the New Testament according to Professor Edgar J. Goodspeed's translation, in serial form. That is, an installment will be published each day, beginning next Monday, when the opening chapters of Matthew's gospel will appear. The other chapters and the succeeding 26 books will follow in regular sequence until the entire New Testament has been printed in our columns.

The translation of Professor Goodspeed has won the approval of many of the leading Biblical scholars of the nation, who argue that while the St. James version and the American revision will always be preferred by many, because of the stately language and grand rythm which characterize many passages, yet every such translation as this of Prof. Goodspeed into the common vernacular of the everyday citizen sheds a little more light on many disputed passages.

We are sure this new version will be diligently read not only by church people, but by many lovers of good literature who do not claim membership with any ecclesiastical body. It will be a valuable study for pupils of the Sunday schools.

Remember, the first installment of this Goodspeed translation will appear in the Daily Press of Monday, November 5. It is the story of Christ told in every day language. It will mean that thousands of persons who have never taken any interest in the world's greatest book will read it, enjoy it and be thrilled by its plain, powerful teachings told in plain newspaper English.

Many of Glendale's leading pastors have voiced their hearty approval of this plan of the Daily Press to place the New Testament in over 7300 homes, set forth in language such as we use in our every-day conversation. They say it will undoubtedly stimulate the reading of the Bible around the fireside, as in our fathers' day. These statements, and others that will be secured later, will be published from time to time that our readers may know how the leaders of religious thought in the community regard the plan.

Here is what a leading minister of another city says: "We can never hope to make our way as a leader of nations except we respect, reverence, read and obtain the experience and live by the moral standards found in the Bible. I heartily endorse any method of getting the public to read God's message to man."

In this great translation readers of the Daily Press will find that the Scriptures have not been changed, only put into every day language. It is the placing of the Bible in the hands of persons who otherwise would not thoroughly understand it. It makes it easy to read.

RADIO CONCERT LAST NIGHT WAS GREAT SUCCESS

The radio concert given last night by Glendale talent and broadcasted by the Examiner was a marked success. The Elks orchestra of eleven pieces played a number of fine selections but the members thought the room was too small to give the best effect to the music when put on the wires.

The singing by Mayor Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard, Mrs. Virginia Freeman and Miss Dorothy Dagley was equal to the best heard in the numerous concerts given over this radio and it is certain that all the listeners in were delighted at the wonderful program that came to them.

MR. AND MRS. N. L. DUTTON GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY

Many friends of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Dutton of 329 Magnolia avenue, gathered at their home during their absence Friday evening and planned a surprise party. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Dutton found their home beautifully decorated and guests awaiting them, dressed in queer and fancy masquerade costumes. The evening was spent in games, dancing and singing. Over thirty guests were present from Los Angeles, Glendale and Santa Monica.

'MRS. WIGGS' HAS FINE SHOWING FIRST EVENING

Good Clean Comedy as Well as Wholesome Philosophy Shown

Appreciation of a good clean comedy and the wholesome, good-natured philosophy of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" fame, was shown by the hearty applause by which the audience of over 600 people greeted the presentation of this popular play at the Tuesday Afternoon club auditorium on Friday night by the Glendale Community Players and they showed their approval of the work being done by this organization. The play will again be presented tonight and judging from last night's show it would be advisable to go early as a crowded house is anticipated.

While organized only a few months the Glendale Community Players has been the means of bringing out a great deal of talent. Its purpose is to further the drama and to give local talent a means of self-expression. As it is not organized for profit, only sufficient admission charge is made to cover the expenses of auditorium rental, scenery, etc.

Every character in the cast of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" deserves a great deal of credit for the manner in which the work was interpreted. Exterior sets used in the second and third acts were designed by Robert Stevenson, art director of Community Players. Mrs. Nanno Woods was the director for the play; Bill Boyden, stage manager. Music was furnished by Mrs. H. C. Fittinger, piano; Miss Corinne Fittinger, violin; and Karl Fittinger, cello. Miss Corinne gave several solo numbers between the acts and displayed remarkable talent as a violinist for so young a child.

TROPICO MEN'S CLUB IN BUSINESS SESSION

A business session and home meeting with no outside speakers was held Friday night by members of the Men's club of the Tropico Presbyterian church. Plans were made for a dinner to be prepared by the members, for the next meeting to be held the first Friday evening in December when officers for the coming year will be elected.

CONQUEROR OF PAPYRUS LOSES BIG RACE TODAY

In Memoriam Puts Zev to Sleep on Rain, Soaked Track

RACE TRACK, LATONIA, Ky., Nov. 3.—In Memoriam, a Kentucky bred three-year-old, won the $50,000 Latonia championship stakes today beating the great Zev, which finished second and My Own third. Rialto pulled up in fourth place.

When the horses came on the track at 3:37, the drizzling rain had stopped leaving the course lightning fast.

My Own was last as the field went over to the three quarters post. In Memoriam drew the pole position with Zev second, Rialto third and My Own on the outside.

The race was one of the biggest upsets of the year as Zev, winner of the Kentucy Derby and conqueror of Papyrus was a heavily played favorite. In Memoriam, owned by Carl Wiedemann of Newport, Ky., won by four lengths, while Zev finished with a lead of six lengths over Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own.

The winner received a tremendous ovation when Jockey Mack Gardner pulled him up in front of the judges' stand. The time was 3:04 2-5, nearly six seconds slower than the American record for the distance.

RECIPROCITY P. E. O. LUNCHEON SUCCESSFUL

A delightful social affair at which covers were laid for 72 was the reciprocity P. E. O. luncheon served by the Women's auxiliary at the First Congregational church with Mrs. C. D. Lusby, president of the reciprocity board, presiding. It was a delicious luncheon and followed by a program which included speeches on P. E. O. work by several distinguished guests notably Mrs. Helen D. Townsend, past supreme president of the order; Mrs. Ollie Cramer of Los Angeles, state president; Mrs. Cornelia Hoard of Pasadena, second vice president, and Mrs. Clara Bowen of Burbank.

Mrs. Eva Cunningham, a delegate to the supreme convention, gave a most interesting report of its proceedings; Mrs. Alice Ripley contributed a piano solo; Mrs. Frank Arnold a vocal solo, and Miss Isabel Isgrig, whistling numbers.

GLENDALE PRESS CUPS FOR TENNIS WINNERS HERE

The three Glendale Press cups to be awarded to the winners of the recent tennis tournament conducted by Glendale Community Service have arrived and will, within a few days, be presented by Bill Bode, chairman of the tennis committee of the service.

The winners are as follows:

Men's singles, J. Douglas Baker of Eagle Rock.

Boy's singles, Howard Wimmer of Glendale High school.

Girl's singles, Mary Barbara Taylor, of Glendale High school.

"Community service wishes to express its thanks for these cups to Capt. T. D. Watson and the Glendale Press," said R. E. Tucker, director of Community service in Glendale this morning. "The tournament was a success in every sense of the word and much credit is due to the Glendale Press and Mr. Watson."

MANY TICKETS SOLD FOR NOV. 6 ENTERTAINMENT

You'll Have to Hurry If You Gets Yours Don't Delay

The outlook for the benefit entertainment to be given next Tuesday evening in the Tuesday Afternoon club's auditorium, is most auspicious. The program is complete in so far as the 22 motion picture stars already announced as participants is concerned, but it is expected that two more will be added to the list. Each one of the famous folk will have a part and the entertainment will be one that is absolutely unique. A striking feature is that these will be no expenses attached to the performance.

Every one of the volunteers from filmland willingly gives his or her services free and is glad of the opportunity. All others who take part in any capacity, from ticket sellers to ushers, is proud also, to give his services free.

It was to be expected that Glendale and Eagle Rock residents, whose homes were saved from destruction by fire when those two modest heroes, Clarence Edwards and J. W. McGahan, gave their lives in fighting the conflagration, would be glad to do anything in their power, from assisting in the entertainment to buying tickets, but that these famous motion picture folk should enter into the project so heartily, was a revelation. They showed the finer side of their natures in this whole-hearted offering.

All the money taken in at this performance will be added to the testimonial fund being collected by the banks, for the aid of dependents left by the two heroes named.

The tickets are selling very fast. Only a few remain. Have you bought yours?

ADDITIONAL FIRE PROTECTION NEEDED

The desirability of additional fire protection in Glendale was emphasized this morning by E. F. Sanders, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The recent forest fire, in his opinion, was a warning which should be heeded by the city administration. He believes that every safeguard should be taken to prevent a recurrence of such a catastrophe. He considers that Casa Verdugo's lack of fire protection is a serious menace to Glendale.

The Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of the following communication from Will E. Chapin, general manager of the Hollywood Hills association, calling attention to a meeting to discuss fire prevention to be held November 16:

"The disastrous fires which have occurred during the present season in California have caused the loss of millions in value, the destruction of vast areas of native growth beside doing incalculable injury to the watershed upon which many communities depend and have created a flood menace no less serious. Something must be done to remedy these conditions."

ROTARIANS DROP DIGNITY TO HAVE A REAL FROLIC

Turn C. of C. Auditorium Into Old-Time Barn; Disport Themselves

Rotarians forgot dignity and had a real Hallowe'en frolic Friday night at the Chamber of Commerce where the auditorium had been wonderfully decorated by the special committee composed of Bill Hunter, Dan Kelty and Carl Kirkman. It simulated very well the interior of an old-time barn with cornstalks lining the walls and piles of yellow pumpkins and apples suggesting the harvest season. Practically all the guests were specially costumed and many were so unique both in garb and adaptation to the role suggested as to be worthy of special mention. No prizes were provided, however.

The president, George Barr, came dressed as a little boy. "Val" Hollister posed as a preacher; "Bill" Hunter was a coon; Roy Kent a very good understudy for "Doug" Fairbanks; J. I. Wernette, an alderman; Mrs. Al Eastman, a girl of the sixties in her mother's wedding dress; Mrs. Paul Carson, a Southern belle in basque and crinoline; France Henry, a Highland laird; "Herb" Smith, a Dutch comedian; Carl Kirkman, a farmer; Mrs. Kirkman, a little girl, and her daughter a little sailor; R. D. White, a French Marquis; Helen White, a Pierrot; Ed Hewitt a clown who made a lot of fun. There were gypsies, yama yamas, auto mechanics, hunters, dominoes, and many other make-ups usually seen at fancy dress balls and everybody had a good time.

The program was brief and informal, including a Virginia reel in which everybody joined, an instrumental number by Paul Carson and whistling solo by Mrs. Carson, song by Ed Jones, reading by Jennie Phillips. Apples, pumpkin pie, doughnuts and cider were served by way of refreshment.

COLORADO STREET IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

Enthusiasm was the keynote of the meeting last night in the city hall of the Colorado street Improvement association.

President J. M. Boland of 213 West Broadway, who presided, announced that he has come in contact with no opposition to the widening of this cross-town thoroughfare.

The opinion prevailed that good progress is being made in the collection of the fund to defray the expenses of moving about a dozen buildings back from the present sidewalk line. It has been estimated that this can be done for something like $3000, of which about $1000 has been raised already whereas, if action is delayed until condemnation proceedings have been started, it is estimated that the cost will be about $20,000. This means that the cost under voluntary action will be about 30 cents a front foot but under condemnation proceedings it would be about $1.25 a front foot.

About thirty members of the association attended the meeting. Plans were discussed for another meeting in about two weeks. Information in regard to the construction of the bridge over the Los Angeles river may be available at this time.

AMERICAN LEGION POST WANTS A "REALLY" HOME

Wanted—A home!

Such is the attitude of local exservice men as expressed last night at the weekly meeting of Post 127 of the American Legion.

Although no definite action was taken at the session, the opinion seemed to prevail that the establishment of a centrally located "homey" club house, just large enough for the needs of the local post, is extremely desirable.

Dr. William C. Mabry of 115 East Acacia avenue expressed his opinion that it might be possible to sell the property at 128 South Maryland avenue and secure another site with a larger frontage at a lower cost. In order to discuss the subject Commander Chalmer D. Day of 521 East Elk avenue announced a conference of the executive committee and all officers Wednesday night at 7:30 at 111 East Broadway in the office of Attorney James F. McBryde.

Just Off the Wire From Here and There

[By Associated Press]

NAPA, Calif., Nov. 3.—Every guard who could be spared, was searching the hills in this vicinity for traces of thre inmates of the Napa State hospital, who escaped last night. Two of the men are known to be dangerous. The escaped men are Ed A. Daly, transferred as criminally insane from the Folsom state prison in 1922; C. H. Reynolds, committed from Colusa in 1921, and E. Ferrel, former Mare Island sailor.

Daly and Reynolds are considered dangerous, and were confined in a department where extreme cases are kept. Investigation disclosed that they picked a lock last evening and joined Ferrel, an inmate of another ward. The three scaled an eight foot wall and disappeared. They are believed to have gone eastward from here.

TOKIO, Nov. 3.—Japan has repeated her protest to China against the agreement permitting the construction of five powerful wireless stations in China, under a contract signed with R. P. Schwerin, president of the Federal Telegraph company, in conjunction with the Radio Corporation of America.

The action is taken "with the greatest reluctance," according to an official of the foreign office, "just at a moment when the people of Japan are showing their gratitude to America for their great munificence."

POCATELLO, Idaho, Nov. 3.—Lieutenant Governor Nelson Story, of Montana, brother of Col. Walter Story of Los Angeles, is in a hospital here unconscious, partially paralyzed and near death, and Mrs. Story is dead, following the overturning of their automobile two and a half miles south of McCammon, Idaho, yesterday afternoon at three o'clock. Mr. Story is believed to have applied the brakes on the car too suddenly at a sharp turn.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 3.—Carle H. Smith, Denver banker and prominent business man, was sentenced October 20 to serve from four to ten years in the state penitentiary when he entered a plea of guilty to obtaining money by false pretenses and fraudulently selling land twice, it was announced by District Attorney Phillip S. Van Cise today.

LONG BEACH, Nov. 3.—Ed Strangler Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, easily defeated Gus Alex, Albanian champion, in straight falls here last night. The first fall came in eight minutes 10 seconds with a reverse body hold and wrist lock. The second was gained in 1 minute 45 seconds, with a head lock. Lewis outweighed Alex fully 30 pounds.

SEATTLE, Nov. 3.—Development of one of the three mines in Alaska, producing platinum and palladium ore, is now assured near Ketchikan, Alaska, and shipments of concentrates will start before December, declared G. Morrissey, publisher of the Ketchikan, Alaska, Chronicle.

ORGAN RECITAL LAST NIGHT GREAT TREAT

The audience which came out for the organ recital at the First Congregational church by Miss Lilla Litch, assisted by Howard Cavanah, choir director, had a great treat. Miss Litch handled the instrument beautifully, revealing its many fine qualities, and presented a varied program of about eight numbers. Mr. Cavanah sang a French aria and another song entitled "Watching."

PROGRAM COVER PICTURE FOR FIRE BENEFIT READY

F. Grayson Sayre of 914 South Central avenue, who is well known as an artist, has prepared the program cover-picture for the "fire benefit." The necessary cut for printing is now being made by the Thorpe Engraving company of Los Angeles. The original picture, which is symbolical, will be auctioned off during an intermission.

AUXILIARY OF CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL SOCIETY TO MEET

Members of the Glendale auxiliary of the Children's Hospital society will meet on Monday afternoon at the home of the local chairman, Mrs. E. J. Morgan, 1125 South Central avenue. An invitation has been extended to the various organizations to send their representatives.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1923

L. A. AUTO SHOW TO BE A GALA EVENT

1923 Motor Exhibit Will Be Finest Ever Arranged

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—Announcement that the 1923 Los Angeles Automobile Show will be staged here for nine gala days starting on Saturday, November 10, was authorized today by officials of the Motor Car Dealers association under whose auspices the show will be held.

Prager Park will be used for this, the eleventh annual motor car, truck and accessory exposition of Southern California. In view of the fact that the 1924 model announcements have come earlier than usual from the manufacturing centers this year, high interest in the L. A. auto show is anticipated; an interest based on the debut here for the first time of many new models and genuine "first night" surprises that the manufacturers and distributors have saved for show patrons.

To say that this year's monster exhibit of cars, trucks and accessories will be a "million dollar" affair would be hackneyed; the phrase has been used, it would seem, before at some time or other. Yet Burt L. Roberts, secretary-manager of the association and general manager of the show, asserts that it literally will be just that; more than a million dollars' worth of motor vehicles and accessories will be spread on display within the three gorgeously decorated tents.

Similar to last year's event, in that three connected tents of large dimensions will be utilized at the show grounds—bordered by Grand, Hill, and Washington avenues—there will be a change as far as the music is concerned. Last year one centrally located band played and the music was wirelessed through the tents by loud speakers. This year there is to be an orchestra in each tent, and daily continuous programs of everything from the grandest of opera to the most toe-teasing of multi-cylinder symphonic jazz and popular melodies.

Los Angeles annual show, always a most colorful one because of the beauty of the decorations and the splendor of the "special show jobs," will again be a symphony of loveliness—a triolet of Three color schemes—flame, turquoise and golden rod have been selected by the artists as the motifs for the several tents. Working from these basic tones, the decorators will present something fine in the way of simple beauty, it is declared.

With this year's show taking on an added importance because of the large number of new models which will be seen there for the first time, an extraordinary and record-breaking attendance is expected. Last year's gate rolled around the 100,000 mark. This year, with competition among makers keener with a greater Southern California population and with everyone agog to see the anticipated surprises, that high total is expected to be exceeded. For, in addition to the reasons mentioned, it is pointed out by the motor car distributors, this show will draw hundreds upon hundreds of visitors who are themselves members of the motor fraternity—sub-dealers, factory men and others specifically interested in the merchandising of cars, trucks and accessories.

Members of the show committee for the dealers' association are Robert S. Breyer, chairman; Don P. Smith, H. W. Tuttle, Winslow B. Felix and Hamlin W. Nerney. All are active in the motor car sales world of Los Angeles and also are active in the general trade benefit of the association.

CHECK UP YOUR CERTIFICATES AT ONCE

Although new automobile licenses will not be ready until February 1, delays and difficulties in obtaining them may be avoided if motorists will check up their certificates. As a gentle reminder that a new order of things will prevail next year, the Automobile Club of Southern California calls the attention of its members and the motoring public to the fact that a flat fee of $3 will be charged on all pleasure cars for 1924 plates and certificates. Commercial cars equipped with solid tires will be charged an additional weight fee.

In order that a minimum of delay and difficulty may be experienced by auto owners the auto club suggests the following precautions:

"The 1923 certificate of registration which serves as the application for 1924 license must be plainly legible."

"If the certificate is now illegible in that the state license number, or the engine number is not readily readible, it will be necessary to make application for a new certificate and if this is done now it will save considerable time and inconvenience at the renewal period."

"If the address as now shown on the certificate is incorrect, it should be crossed out and the new address written in ink."

"If the certificate of registration shows some other party as legal owner and if the legal owner's claim has been satisfied, his signature must be secured on the second line on the back of the certificate."

"In case the registered owner is now deceased and the automobile has been left to beneficiaries, a transfer should now be made into beneficiary's name."

"If your 1923 certificate has been lost, stolen or destroyed you should make application immediately for a new one. The charge for securing such duplicate certificate is 50 cents."

'GUEST TAGS' FOR ADDITIONAL FAVORS

Are your friends from outside the state who have motored to California provided with "guest tags?"

If not, they should be to insure extra courtesies wherever they may visit.

These tags are obtainable free of charge by visiting motorists from any branch office of the Automobile Club of Southern California. They indicate that the car bearing the emblem is carrying "strangers within our gates" and therefore possible future residents. Free touring information is supplied liberally to all cars carrying tags, which also are interesting little souvenirs of the motor trip through California.

WHEN HUNTING PICNIC SPOTS

It's a strange thing that with all the scenery in the country, all the backroads and all the blades of grass that have never been trod upon by human foot that motorists out for a picnic should have such a confoundedly hard time of it trying to find a decent place to park the old bus and spread the party. "Let's stop here," suggests the party who looks only to the scenic features, but it usually can't be done because it's private property, or there's too much traffic, or—well, the situation is too well known to bear repeating. Invariably when the driver finds the ideal place there is something wrong with the scenery, a barn in the vicinity, a gasoline pump or "too many other picnickers."

Thus it goes. And accordingly the motorist will find it practical to make a note of "nice places to picnic" when he is simply out for a spin without the old sandwiches. There are always plenty of attractive places to be seen when they aren't wanted. That's the time to record them for future reference.

AUTO STEALING NOW IS POOR BUSINESS

Auto thieves are finding it more and more difficult to make a "living" in the southern counties of California!

The sun of the auto thief is setting, and that his activities are being curbed is the encouraging report emanating from the theft bureau of the Automobile club of Southern California.

Club detectives engaged in rounding up thieves in the territory of the state lying between the Mexican border and Monterey county, declare that motorists are more careful in locking their cars and in keeping a weather eye out for suspicious looking characters hanging about.

As the case now stands, however, there have been approximately $5,000,000 worth of automobiles stolen in Southern California to date this year. This figure is based on accurate information compiled by the auto club theft bureau from data secured in the thirteen counties of the southern part of the state.

A large share of this loot has been recovered from the thieves, but a portion of it is a total loss to auto owners.

Investigation of strangers renting private garages for the storage of motor cars under suspicious circumstances is urged upon all parties renting such garages. It is said that auto theft gangs are renting private garages in some of the smaller towns, where they store cars which have been stolen in the cities, until the police chase has blown over. Then they take the cars out of such "storage" and sell them at reduced prices.

That this part of America will not be a mecca for auto thieves who are driven westward from the east by cold weather, is the determination of auto club officials who have planned a strenuous drive against the activities of miscreants during November, December and January.

Connecting rod bearings should be tested by tapping them very gently with a hammer and watching for play. For the crankshaft bearings, rock the shaft a little with petcocks open; if this can be done, the bearings are all right.

The Star 1924 Car

with a changed and beautified body

One year ago W. C. Durant, builder of more than a million automobiles, promised to produce the greatest dollar for dollar value ever given in a low priced car.

The whole country waited, skeptical—expectant—

—AND THEN—

Durant fulfilled his promise by building the 1923 Star Car.

He built, as do all good builders, a firm foundation.

He built a chassis that had hitherto been unapproached—a chassis such as, up to that time, had been used only in cars much higher in price.

So completely did this car fulfill his promise that 125,000 light car prospects purchased the Star Car in its first year.

To give the public this car at its low price, it was necessary to get into volume production immediately, and work concentrated on the chassis.

Always Correct in Construction

THE ULTIMATE PERFECTING OF THE BODY HAS NOW BEEN MADE

Now, we present to you, in the NEW 1924 STAR CAR, a body perfect in construction, in line, and in refinement of detail, which justifies our confidence that you will find all that you have hitherto sought—a fulfillment of all your requirements—and that you will feel a pride in the ownership of this, the NEW 1924 STAR CAR.

We're proud of this car—we ask you to see it, to test it, to ride in it—and then to compare it with any other car at twice its price.

We will then leave the question of purchase with you.

$490

F. O. B. Lansing, Michigan

WHAT WAS CHANGED IN THE NEW STAR CAR

THE NEW BODY—Long, curving stream lines, giving the appearance of greater wheel base. All center posts and sills are larger, adding strength.
Overlapping doors, with two adjustable rubber bumpers. Side curtains open with doors.
Windshield has curved side arms, to conform with the stream line of the body.
Wider and better trimmed running board.
Crown fenders, heavier and neater.
Drum headlights.
Front spring bumper.

RADIATOR—The Radiator has been re-designed along new lines, and is vastly improved in beauty and symmetry. It is a Fedders Radiator, and of oversize capacity. The longer lines and added cubic inches afford greater cooling action to the engine.

HOOD—Long, flowing sweep has been added, following the stream line of the body, beautiful in design and harmonizing with the entire outline. Side hood hinges are concealed.

UPHOLSTERY—The upholstery is more heavily padded, and later and larger type of springs are used. It is finished with Hidum binding throughout.

SPARK AND GAS CONTROL at wheel, of sector type.
Instrument board has dashlight and nickel trimmed instruments.

GRAHAM TRUCKS ARE 'SAVING' MACHINE

"Economy for owner and comfort for the driver are the conspicuous features of the new models of Graham Brothers trucks," says R. E. Corrigan, 116 West Colorado, local Dodge Brothers dealer, by whom Graham Brothers trucks are sold exclusively.

"Those are the marked features for the new models of Graham Brothers trucks. Those features have always been dominant factors in the design of these light trucks, but the new models show improvements in each feature which will be welcomed by operator and driver.

"The new frame is stronger and possesses a high resistance against possible distortion from rough and heavy road work. A front bumper is provided so rigid that it can receive a most severe shock with no danger to the frame. A rear tire carrier is provided below the rear of the frame. This helps the one-man operator of the truck, as the tire can be easily lifted on or off this carrier with minimum of effort.

"A new three point suspension of the propeller shaft bearing insures rigid alignment of the shaft.

"A change has been made in the location of the battery box which is easily accessible under the left side of the driver's seat.

"Both first and second spring leaves are wrapped, so in case of breakage of the first leaf, the second carries the load safely until repairs can be made.

"Improvements in the cab have been made which will please drivers because of the increased comfort in driving. This comfort for the driver is a real economical advantage as the man will be less weary toward the end of the day than if driving conditions were tiresome. The seat cushions have Marshall springs, are well padded and covered with genuine leather, a high vision windshield permits a comfortable and natural position when driving—passenger car comfort.

"Changes in hood, cowl, lamps and fenders have resulted in a handsome truck which is a real advertisement for the operator. The truck compares favorably in appearance with passenger cars, and the splendid baked enamel finish insures this attractive appearance for a long period of time.

"All improvements have been made without adding to the weight. The light chassis weight of Graham Brothers truck has long been a marked economical feature. No additions have been made in capacity to the line and Graham Brothers continue to specialize in 1-ton, 1½-ton trucks, which capacities meet more than 80 per cent of all trucking requirements.

"Standard bodies, of which there are 26 different designs, have been improved wherever there has been room for improvement over bodies already carefully designed and conscientiously built. Several new bodies to meet new business condition have been designed and are in production. The luxurious, easy riding 14 passenger sedan bus is one of the new bodies which has already received unusual appreciation from motor bus operators.

"As Graham Brothers trucks are sold and serviced by Dodge Brothers dealers everywhere, the operator is sure of immediate and close-at-hand service wherever the truck may be used."

WHEN WORKING UNDER THE AUTO

Lay out an old piece of carpet underneath the car and, with a handful of tools and an oil can, crawl under and make a careful inspection. The bolts that hold the engine pan and splash guards can be tried for tightness, likewise the spring clip nuts. This may elimindrain holes in the pan. Look over the radiator support bolts, and test engine support bolts. The underpart of the battery box may be corroded and can be scraped. Hammer around slightly for loose parts, clean wherever it is necessary, and lubricate thoroughly all working parts.

CONVENIENCES ARE SOLD WITH NASH

Your closer observation of the Nash five passenger touring model will disclose at once the substantial provisions Nash has made to enhance your comfort. The front compartment now is roomier than ever. And the front cushion, with deftly rounded corners, are a full inch and a half wider and two inches deeper. The rear cushion has been extended three inches in width and deepened an inch. Though occupied with the thought of making riding more pleasant Nash has also directed expert effort toward heightening your driving ease by contriving a happily compact grouping of all instruments, including a fine clock, on the dash. A glance at the exterior of the car reveals an added attractiveness due to the lengthened full-sweeping fenders that serve to set off the body smartly. An automatic wiper is mounted on the windshield. And there are gleaming kick plates set solidly just above the rubber-filled running boards; pockets of new design in the top provide a receptacle for the curtains; and a rear-view mirror puts the road behind you in front, so to speak. The foot brakes have remarkably large braking surface designed to meet the most difficult conditions of mountain driving. It is rarely likely that you will have recourse to their full power but it is intensely reassuring and comforting to know that it is instantly available. Nash has also progressed far with clutch betterment and the results are immediately apparent in the smoothness and positiveness with which the clutch mechanism functions. And the caliber of the car is further emphasized by the great wealth of power generated by the motor and alert responsiveness with which it accelerates, and the very remarkable riding comfort it affords.

The Nash models are now on display at the headquarters of the Glendale Nash Sales, 112 South Maryland.

PACKARD SINGLE SIX PROVES POPULAR

One of the big hits of the year is the Packard single six.

Its graceful body lines, the Packard reputation for service and dependability, the economy in operation and comfort to occupants are some of the things that are making this car one of the "bright lights" in the automobile field.

"Long, low, graceful in every proportion, the Packard single six makes instant appeal to the eye," said the manager of the Dixie Packard company, 610 East Broadway, local dealers for the Packard. "Beneath its outward beauty is a quality of design, material and manufacture that is genuinely Packard in character. The chassis retains in advanced degree every virtue revealed by the time-tried single six in the service of thousands of satisfied owners. The single six embodies perfectly the ideal of a car that is light in weight, economical to operate and maintain, powerful, easy riding, moderately priced. It is made in eleven standard body type, in two wheelbase lengths, 126 and 133 inches."

OPPORTUNITIES WASTED

These advertisements on the spare tire covers are getting to be a bit tame of late; and the possibilities are too good to waste. The words, "Another Fool" in place of "Another Slicker," for example, might put a lot of other drivers on their guard and save trouble. On penalty of having the thing done to death by advertising wizards someone has suggested "What is it?" as a sure way of attracting attention. If tire covers told the truth, however, they would read, "$400 down and ten payments to go."

AUTO LAUNDRY IS VALUABLE FEATURE

The Glendale Automobile Laundry, 109 West Wilson, is all that its name implies—a place where automobiles of all sizes and makes are given a thorough cleaning. The wise motorist realizes that it does not take long for dirt and grease to take the high gloss from automobile enamel. For this reason they make it a point to have the car cleaned about every so often. This auto laundry has dozens of steady customers who do this and all of them are satisfied at the treatment received at that establishment.

This laundry also does oiling and greasing.

LATE MODEL HUP MEETS WITH FAVOR

The new Hupmobile has been greeted so favorably that 20,000 of them have been ordered built before the first of the year, which means capacity operations for the main plant at Detroit, as well as all Hupp subsidiaries for the remainder of 1923, according to the information received by Bartlett & French, 111 West Harvard, local Hupp distributors.

"Deliveries of the new models are being made by rotation, and this the factory gets into full production on the latest Tupps, which will probably be within a couple of weeks or so," stated Mr. Bartlett, retail Hupmobile sales manager.

"The newest car is only the sixth model Hupp that has been built in the 15 years of its history. It has long been the policy of the Hupp Motor Car corporation not to consider it advisable to make annual changes in their models, a practice that many other manufacturers have adopted in recent years. Instead, they have made improvements on the models then being produced just as quickly as better engineering methods were discovered, and offered complete new cars only when extensive betterments were devised.

"Each new model has represented an outstanding step in engineering accomplishment, lower service cost and improved performance over every previous one, factory records show.

THOSE WHO KNOW CHOOSE THE ESSEX

A purchaser may buy his first automobile because of its attractive appearance, splendid demonstration, or on the advice of friends. But when he announces he will repeat, you may be sure that he has found, after a thorough test, genuine value. Satisfied owners enthere any greater evidence of satisfaction?

Built right, the Essex organization is able to market the touring car at a price thoroughly in keeping with today's times, because of the unusually strong manufacturing, sales and service organizations behind the car.

The lines of the touring car make it a distinctive attractive model. It is a full five-passenger car, and there is ample room for considerable luggage. Doors are wide, and open easily from either inside or outside. Seats are deep and wide, of hand-buffed leather and cushioned by deep springs. A cowl ventilator adds to the comfort in the front compartment. All controls are exceptionally easy to operate, and driving is accomplished almost without effort.

Standard equipment includes mission lock (approved) and cord tires. The body and wheels of the Essex touring car are finished in a deep, rich blue. The balance of the chassis parts are black.

In performance Essex has achieved international fame. You will want that ability to pick up quickly when traffic starts—a car that climbs hills and runs through sand with never a sign of faltering—that gives you the same steady performance throughout a long journey. Essex will do this. And the testimony of Essex owners is abundant proof that it will do it, not only the first year, but for years thereafter.

The Essex is handled in Glendale by Kelley Motor company, 230 North Brand.

NEW CHALMERS SEDAN IS LATEST THING IN LUXURY

The latest thing in sedan luxury and comfort has made its appearance on the showroom floor of the Glendale Motor Car vompany, 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell and Chalmers dealer.

The new Chalmers sedan is completely equipped; upholstered in beautiful velour with the very latest thing in body lines; there is no detail lacking. "This car," said Mr. Clark, "is the supreme effort on the part of the Maxwell-Chalmers organization to give to the automobile buying public the very best that money can buy and at a price that immediately attracts attention to it.

"Since the consolidation of the Maxwell-Chalmers organization, every effort has been made upon the part of the engineers and officers of the company to put out a product that is just a little better than the public has been accustomed to getting at the price, and the Chalmers sedan stands today as the acme of luxury, comfort and beauty, that cannot be compared with anything that has ever been offered before to the automobile buying public at such a low price.

"We are now able to make immediate delivery on this sedan and in view of the product that we are offering, we anticipate that our Chalmers deliveries in this territory will put the Chalmers well toward the top of the list in six cylinder car sales."

BIG ADVANCE OF STAR CAR IS SHOWN

Approximately 200 dealers and distributors forming the Pacific coast selling organization of the Star Motor company of California attended the first annual meeting of the association at Oakland. At the luncheon which opened the program short addresses were delivered by President Norman De Vaux and Sales Manager Forest Arnold.

Mr. De Vaux, in welcoming his dealers, called attention to the spectacular growth in popularity of the Star car, quoting the sales in California for the first month, that is for October, 1922, when 72 cars were disposed of, and outlining the rapid progress made in production and distribution in the ensuing 12 months, which are evidenced by the registration of 733 sales in September, 1923, in California.

"The demand has been similarly great throughout the entire coast," said Mr. DeVaux, "For the nine months of 1923 so far elapsed, the Star car has ranked third in Oregon and fifth in California. Such records are not to be found in the first year's history of any other car ever built.

"They reflect the cooperation which has existed between the various departments and branches of our organization, the notable harmony which has facilitated in every way the establishing of the many channels connected with the production and sale on a large scale of our line.

"This first year is but the foundation, on which I can, and do conservatively promise you that there is to rise a structure which for magnitude, for reputation and for right building has no parallel."

The representative of Dilley & Armstrong, 115 West Harvard, local Star dealers, is back again on the job and is busy handing out Stars to Glendale buyers.

WILL PAINT AUTO IN SINGLE DAY

To paint an automobile with four coats in one day is the everyday stunt that will be performed by C. H. Arbenz of 747 South San Fernando road. This will be done by what is known as the Gene Morriss one-day auto painting system, and Mr. Arbenz claims that it is the best system known at this time for the painting of automobiles.

Within a few days Mr. Arbenz will have his establishment in full operation. The machinery for this work is being installed at this time. Mr. Arbenz will operate in Glendale, Burbank, Eagle Rock and adjacent territory.

"We remove all the paint," said Mr. Arbenz this morning, "before we begin applying the new paint. Then we apply the proper undercoats and finish with a gloss equaling that of a new car. We use the best materials used to the auto-painting industry. All bodies, fenders and wheels painted and varnished with brush, chassis sprayed.

"The Gene Morriss system of auto painting is not an experiment, but is the result of 28 years' of practical painting experience. Those desiring their automobiles painted are invited to inspect our work, our plant and our methods."

Mr. Arbenz will occupy the building that is now being constructed by L. H. Wilson on San Fernando. The shop should be in operation within a week. It will cover a floor space of about 9000 square feet.

REALTY - BUILDING MEN SELECT CHEVROLET

The wonderful real etate development, directly due to the automobile, has been in the outlying suburban districts.

It is true, of course, that short-line railroads and electric lines form the ground work of transportation for many of our suburbs, but intensive development in this direction has been made possible by the automobile. Many a suburb and some whole towns have been built because motor transportation made it possible for people to live there and enjoy country life while working in the cities.

Some of the finest suburban communities are children of the automobile. Rail conditions are inadequate in many suburbs and if men could not get to the city for business and women to the city to shop, by motor car, the communities would never have been built. Architects and builders tell us that most suburban homes must be provided with twin garages because the wife is not content to be marooned during the day while her husband has the car, so she has her own car.

A survey recently in 60 cities brought out the fact that 135,000 families depend chiefly on motor transportation for communication with the city.

Real estate men have long realized that the automobile makes possible the development of projects beyond the reach of train or trolley transportation.

"There are hundreds of real estate salesmen and building men in Southern California, and many in Glendale, who are using the open and closed Chevrolets in their business," said C. L. Smith, Orange and Colorado, local "Chevie" dealer, this morning. "Every report we get from these men shows that in all instances the Chevrolets are proving efficient and popular.

GAUGING BATTERY WATER

Most motorists simply guess at the proper level of the water in the cells of the battery. They are told to keep the electrolyte at a level of about an inch above the plates; no higher, no lower. But they employ no means of being accurate about it. For this purpose a glass lemonade straw is very useful. By inserting one end of it into the cell deep enough to touch the top of the plates, and by then holding a finger over the upper end and drawing the tube out, the exact depth of the water above the plates is measured by the water in the tube.

GET THE FACTS BEFORE —NOT AFTER—YOU BUY

Said a man to us the other day, "I never in the world would have purchased any other car had I known what I now know about the Rickenbacker."

That's the trouble! Too many people buy without thoroughly investigating. They take too much for granted.

Compare the Rickenbacker Six with others, and you will find this car has innumerable engineering refinements not found in any other car made.

For, not only has the Rickenbacker 4-wheel brakes, which eliminate skidding and give motoring a new feeling of security—for, not only has the Rickenbacker the tandem flywheel which eliminates all vibratory periods and makes motoring a greater pleasure than ever—

for, not only has the Rickenbacker the air cleaner which prevents excessive carbon deposits, thereby prolonging the snap and ginger of the motor—

but, the Rickenbacker has a great deal more—Ease of Control—a child can handle a Rickenbacker.

Beautiful bodies—smartly finished and harmoniously proportioned.

May we call today and point out to you the above mentioned and many more advanced Rickenbacker engineering features?

The silent, swift, sure operation of the Rickenbacker motor will be a revelation to you.

For your own safety, convenience and comfort you need a new car—built to meet the traffic problems of today—

Drive it yourself—you will see why.

THE MOTOR SALES CO.
406 EAST COLORADO BLVD. GLENDALE

to inspect our Sales and Service departments. Let us show you how well we are equipped to care for any kind of repair on any car.

Ask us about our policy of charging only once for a job. If we do not do it RIGHT we suffer the consequences.

Also see the new models of Franklin Cars and let us tell you about a new car we will have shortly, equipped with four wheel brakes, selling for less than a thousand dollars and designed by one of the best known engineers in the world.

Come in and see our beautiful show room and let us prove our ability in the Service Department.

We intend to earn the best mechanical reputation in Glendale. MAKE US PROVE IT.

Let the Car Itself Give You the Facts

We suggest you acquaint yourself thoroughly with the improved Chalmers Six so you will be in a position to exercise your best judgment when you select your next car.

Especially is this desirable with the new low Chalmers prices now prevailing. Comparisons are now in order as never before—particularly comparisons that take into consideration intrinsic worth.

We are confident that a glance at the improved Chalmers Six will be sufficient to arouse your admiration. We know you will be proud to park this car beside any on the avenue.

But to make intelligent comparisons and to secure a just appreciation of what Chalmers values are at the new prices it is necessary to get first hand information of performance and riding qualities.

CHEV. IS GAINING IN SMALL CAR FIELD

How gradually Chevrolet is encroaching on Ford in the low price field in California is evidenced by the sales statistics. In September, 1922, the little fellow of the General Motors group sold only 49 per cent as many cars as Ford. Last month its sales were 70 per cent of those of the low priced leader.

Sales of Chevrolets during the first nine months of 1923 were 55 per cent of those of Ford. During that period Chevrolet gained 68 and Ford 60 per cent over last year.

This information is handed in by C. L. Smith, local "Chev" dealer, Colorado and Orange.

Must You Apologize

for the Appearance of Your Car?

No one enjoys driving a dirty, dust covered car on sunshiny days.

Feels like a man caught at a banquet with his "garden clothes" on.

No excuse for it!

We can "shine it up" for you spick and span at so reasonable a price you'd never hesitate.

Besides—dirt scratches the enamel of your car quicker than anything else. Don't try to rub it off—let us wash it clean.

STOLEN 'CAD' IS HARD TO HIDE

Seventy-five hundred motor cars were stolen in 18 states in the mid-west section of the United States during a recent 12 months period, according to the latest report of theft bureaus maintained by a conference of old line insurance companies of the country. The average of recoveries for all makes of cars in all states reported was slightly less than 50 per cent, the percentage varying widely according to state and make of car.

A high-powered car like the Cadillac, for instance, because of its ability to travel long distances and stand unlimited punishment without the tell-tale recourse to garage service, is a coveted prize for the transcontinental touring pirate. If stolen, it will probably be found a long way from home. Yet, strangely enough, the Cadillac shows the largest percentage of recoveries of any make of car produced on a quantity basis. In fact, the seasoned veteran of motor car banditry is beginning to realize that the law of averages is dead against him if in his ambitious moments he aspires to the theft of a Cadillac.

This high average of recoveries is due to two unique features, which have been commented upon most favorably by motor car underwriters, according to Warren M. Warner, manager of the Cadillac parts department.

"We have an organization here, one part of which is set aside to aid in the recovery of stolen cars," states Mr. Warner. "In addition, we have a system of secret symbols of car identification so effective that we have yet to hear of a Cadillac eight-cylinder car which has been stolen and which we have been unable to identify if given the opportunity to check over our secret signs."

This fact is proving of great assistance to the Court Motor company, 235 South Brand, local Cadillac dealer.

STAR CAR WITH NEW BODY ON DISPLAY

The new Star car, with a body built along entirely new lines, every inch of it embodying the "stream" effect, is making its formal debut before the Glendale automobile buying public today. This new machine, which is creating such a pronounced sensation, is now in display at the showrooms of Dilley & Armstrong, 115 West Harvard street, dealers in this section for the Star.

Entirely changed are the lines of this new car, this being one of the features that is making such a decided hit with those who see this new car. One feature of the special roadster and touring car is the nickle plated radiator. These new cars are equipped regularly with disc wheels, five straight side cord tires, bumper, and other necessities. The car has real black buffed leather upholstering, this lifting the Star out of the class of the cars using imitation leather.

"At a dealers' meeting at the Little Theater, Los Angeles, Tuesday," said W. W. Prindle, manager of the local Star agency, "a funny thing happened. Earl C. Anthony, Los Angeles Packard dealer, said to Cliff Durant, the Star dealer in that city:

"'What are you trying to do—copy after the Packard in the lines of your body?'

"'No,' responded Mr. Durant, 'We are improving upon it.'

"Orders for this new model are coming in in great shape, although the folks who are placing them have never seen it. It would be advisable for those wishing anything like immediate delivery to place their orders at once."

MAXWELL UPKEEP COSTS 10 CENTS IN YEAR

After driving the car for nearly a year A. R. Turner, 2145 Nadeau avenue, spent the first dime for repairs on his automobile last week. The 10 cents went for a bolt lost from the starter mechanism.

The car in question is a Maxwell touring and its remarkable upkeep record was brought to light when Turner drove into the service department at the Union Motors, Inc., Maxwell distributors to replace the missing bolt. Turner told George Kelly, retail sales manager, that he has driven the car 14,972 miles.

The machine was purchased August 15, 1022, and since that has been used by Turner in his work as manager of the Sunset Coal Tar Products company. Its itinerary has included trips into the Imperial valley, San Francisco, San Diego and the Owens River country in addition to extensive running about town.

Two of the original tires are still in service on the car. The other two are being carried as spares and still have extensive mileage in them.

Turner said that this is the third Maxwell that he has owned and he is highly enthusiastic over the performance and low maintenance cost of the car.

The Glendale Motor company, 124 West Broadway, is dealer for the Maxwell in Glendale.

Drivers Remember—

Never pass any vehicle you may meet on a narrow or obstructed street or dangerous road without slackening speed until safely by. Country roads sometimes are flanked by steep banks, ditches, holes or swamps, shifting sand, or other perils not always plainly visible by reason of weeds, grass, or undergrowth, so that in turning out for another the margin should be approached slowly and with caution for your own safety.

WILLYS-KNIGHT, OVERLAND SALE IS GREAT

Demand for the popular priced cars of the Willys-Overland line has so far exceeded calculations that the Willys-Overland company was forced to raise its October production schedule for the standard Overlands, model 91, from 515 to 600 per day. A further raise to 650 per day during November is in contemplation.

October promises to be a big month for Willys-Overland in Southern California with 238 Overlands and 190 Willys-Knights registered during the first 19 days, a total of 428 as compared with 540 for all of September.

"During the first half of the month," says George T. Smith of the Smith-Sloan, Inc., Glendale dealers for the Overland and Willys-Knight, "we delivered an unusually large number of cars to local buyers.

"Unfortunately, however, these deliveries included few of the new Overland Champions, which caught on so well from the start.

"We are supplied with enough Red Birds to assure immediate delivery, but shipments of Overland 91 are far behind orders. Of course we have not enough Willys-Knights to meet the demand. We never have. The present shortage of them is 150."

"Buying has turned in the direction of all the closed models of the Willys-Overland line so that sales of them now equal those of open cars."

"Altogether Willys-Overland is having a big autumn boom down this way. This speeding up of production at the Toledo factory should pull us out of the shortage hole in a few weeks. At least I hope it will, though there seems likely to be an increase in buying with the coming of the winter tourist months, as there always is."

OLDSMOBILE SIX PROVES BIG HIT

The reception given the 1924 series of six-cylinder Oldsmobiles is such that the Olds Motor works of Lansing, Michigan, will build better than 100,000 of these cars during the next 12 months, according to G. H. Pearsley, general sales manager. Telegram received from distributors and dealers show that more than 150,000 persons saw the new cars on the first two days of their announcement, and a totally unexpected flood of orders resulted.

The entire Olds factory has now been rearranged, according to Mr. Peasley, and millions of dollars have been spent for new equipment and plans have been made to produce a record number of cars during the year.

Production of these new six s has already been started and the factory will soon be producing about 300 cars per day and plans to increase this as fast as the demand warrants and supplies can be secured.

Orders wired the factory during the first few days of the showing of the 1924 line indicate that capacity production of 600 cars per day will be required within a short time. Indications are, Mr. Peasley says, that the year's entire production will be oversold.

Distributors in all the large cities in the country have wired the factory that the new models exceeded their most enthusiastic expectations and the public was most enthusiastic about this lowest priced six cylinder display. In some cities, telegram indicate, it was necessary to turn people away on the first day as it was impossible for the salesrooms to remain open long enough to accomodate the crowds.

Orders, already signed, show that in some territories dealers expect to sell ten times as many cars during the next year as they did last, and Mr. Peasley says that the only problem the factory now has is to produce enough cars to meet the demand.

This popular car is handled in Glendale by C. H. Hunter, 208-10 West Broadway.

AVERAGE USED CAR BRINGS JUST $323.27

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 2.—The average market price of a used automobile October 1, was $323.27 according to Lynn M. Shaw, assistant general manager of the National Automobile Dealers' association. This figure is taken from the charted figures based on reports by automobile dealers in 18 states, made to the N. A. D. A. showing stocks on hand, valuations and selling prices as of October 1.

The average price which the dealers of the country had allowed for the 399,600 used automobiles in stock October 1 was $337.41. The difference between these two figures is the amount of loss on each used car that the dealers were absorbing. This is a loss of capital investment, and does not include the money paid in salesman's commissions, advertising, building rent, taxes, and other items of overhead and management. With all of these figures included the average loss per car will run high.

Advertising expense in connection with the sale of used automobiles has been made a part of the study which the N. A. D. A. made of the used car business. For the first nine months of 1923 the average advertising expenditure per dealer was more than $300. From the figures already obtained the N. A. D. A. believes that the figure for the whole year will easily reach $30,000,000.

This item alone, added to the total losses for the year bring the totals up to show that the losses in the handling of used cars have been an excessive tax against the already narrow margin of net profit which has resulted from increasing operation costs and the steadily lowering list prices of new automobiles.

Chickens live longer on good roads than poor ones, according to farmers who have tried both. Chickens on good roads get educated to traffic and get out of the way. Chickens on roads where there is less traffic get killed before they learn the danger in "Honk, honk!"

Ask a chicken raiser!

LIFTING LOAD OF TRUCKS BRINGS PROTEST

Action of the city council in Los Angeles in raising the legal truck load limit to 26,000 pounds brought emphatic protest in the form of referendum petitions from automobile owners. The state law fixes the maximum weight at 22,000 pounds.

It is pointed out in the protests against the new ordinance that only 36 out of 10,000 motor vehicles reap advantage by the excessive load, and that while this one third of one per cent of vehicle owners are being profited, the remaining 99 and two-third per cent are suffering injury to the highways for which they are charged two cents on every gallon of gasoline they buy for maintenance.

A REAL SACRIFICE
BEAUTIFUL STUCCO HOME

Spanish type stucco, expanded metal lath construction, 8-inch cement foundation, rough finish, will not crack—nothing better built. Large cement porch, front and side, walls of which are solid brick, stucco covered. Attractive awning at front.

Large living room, real tile fireplace, built-in bookcases, attractive fixtures. Beautiful dining room, built-in buffet. Wonderful kitchen, every built-in feature, tile sink, large breakfast nook. Large screen porch. Tile bath, both tub and shower, with built-in cabinets. Two light, attractive bedrooms, one with two large closets, both with built-in chiffoniers. 1-2 inch hdw. floors.

Double garage, 5 large windows, ceiled with plaster board throughout and equipped with laundry tray, sink and extra toilet—can be used for income if desired. Storage instant heater, serving both house and garage. Lawn front and rear.

It's on a 50x150 ft. lot, splendid restricted street, only two blocks from new High school, close to stores and transportation. Never before offered for sale. Price only $7500; $2500 will handle.

You may not know values but we do. When we say this is the best home in Glendale for the money, we are taking in a lot of territory, but we believe it to be true.

Built by owner for his home; business calls him elsewhere, and he has made a price which insures immediate sale. We want you to see it.

ERNEST ELWOOD FORD HONORED BY OMAR TENT

Members of Omar Shrine No. 9, White Shrine of Jerusalem, held one of their most successful meetings and social affairs at Masonic Temple on Friday night when a reception was given in honor of Ernest Elwood Ford, supreme watchman of the shepherds. Mrs. Evelyn G. Pierce, worthy high priestess, was in charge of a short business session which preceded the program.

Mrs. Warren Roberts was general chairman in charge of arrangements for the evening. The program included a dance, "Highland Fling," by Eleanore Marek; song by Captain D. Ripley Jackson; dance, "El Capitan," by Eleanore Marek; song, by Mr. Hire, past watchman of the shepherds of Long Beach, who is now a resident of Glendale; readings by Mrs. Evelyn Pierce.

After the program little Eleanore Marek, driving a toy automobile, entered the chapter room and paged Ernest Elwood Ford. She stopped the automobile in front of him and presented Mr. Ford with a beautiful basket. On behalf of Omar Shrine, Mrs. Pierce presented Mr. Ford with a torch floor lamp. The members and guests then marched down to the banquet room, which had been very beautifully decorated by the committee for the evening.

The hall was centered with a large round table, banked in the center with smilax, radiating from which were streamers of pastel colored crepe paper. Hung above this was a large basket built like a yellow rose. At the end of each streamer was a doll. The place cards were decorated with tiny roses in the center of which was a small candle. At a given signal these candles were lit and and electric lights extinguished and all joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne." On the platform had been arranged a figure to represent a watchman of the shepherds, with crook in his hand, and a camp fire. Covers were laid for over 200. A two course lunch was served.

The committee in charge included Mrs. Warren Roberts, chairman; Mrs. Maude Evans, Mrs. Gertrude McMillan, Mrs. Edith Richardson, Mrs. Olga Bourne, Mrs. Nana Custer, Mrs. Margaret Ryther, Mrs. Ruby Bellringer, Mrs. Pearl Richart, Mrs. Eleanore Denman, Mrs. Eda Lee, Mrs. Marion Thompson, Miss Frances Bailey, Mrs. Maude Brown, Mrs. Luella Emerick, Mrs. Mae Warrick, Mrs. Elizabeth Kelley, Mrs. Mayme Broks, Mrs. Opal McMillan and Frank Bourne.

PYTHIAN SISTERS MET LAST NIGHT

At the regular meeting of the Glendale Pythian Sisters' lodge on Friday night plans were made for a dancing party to follow the regular session on November 16. The committee in charge will include Mrs. Willett, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. King. Mrs. Fellows was initiated into the lodge. After the business meeting refreshments were served by the committee, of which Mrs. Eyerick is chairman.

FERBER'S TO MOVE TO NEW LOCATION ON EAST BROADWAY

Mammoth Removal Sale Will Start Monday; Prices Will Move the Goods; Great Bargains Are Offered in All Departments

The people of Glendale who have been curiously watching the building going up at the northeast corner of Broadway and Maryland for the past six months and speculating as to who was going to occupy the mammoth structure will be happy to know that this location is to be the new home of Ferber's department store.

Since Ferber's opening at 108 S. Brand boulevard on May 10 of this year, they have developed a splendid trade, having been in the forefront of the aggressive merchants and advertisers of this section, and their move into these wonderful new quarters is but a natural sequence of the firm giving the type of service and values to the people of Glendale and vicinity that they have. Their hosts of customers will be pleased to know that their response and patronage has made possible the large growth and development in such a short period of time.

The local Ferber's store is the first series of a chain of department stores that the A. Ferber company Inc. is placing throughout the Southern California cities and towns. Their large establishment at Fullerton under course of construction for the past seven months will open its doors to the public on November 21, and it is planned to have the opening of the Ferber's department store at Glendale take place Tuesday, November 27.

The A. Ferber Company Inc. is capitalized at $250,000, and it is planned to increase the capitalization as the needs of the business develop. Abraham Ferber, the president, was formerly associated with the M. Lurie & Company chain of department stores, who, prior to their partition on August 1st of this year operated a chain of department stores at Gloversville, N. Y., Albany, N. Y., Troy, N. Y., Amsterdam, N. Y., Little Falls, N. Y., Hoosick Falls, N. Y., Schenectady, N. Y., Fort Plain, N. Y., Herkimer, N. Y., North Adams, Mass., Pittsfield, Mass., Bennington, Vt., with additional specialty shops at Amsterdam, N. Y., Herkimer, N. Y., Baltimore, Me., and Washington, D. C. In the seven years of Mr. Ferber's association with the Lurie company chain and sharing in that development from a growth of from four to seventeen stores and in a tremendous growth of invested capital, Mr. Ferber became an expert in the chain department store business. Mr. Ferber in heading the A. Ferber & Company Inc., has gathered about him a very powerful directorate; members of the board of directors being Mr. Samuel Rothschild, president of G. Levor & company, nationally known shoe leather manufacturers; Mr. C. W. Stewart, for years associated with the American Thread company; Dr. Wm. H. Wickett of Fullerton, of the Johnson - Wickett Clinic, famous throughout Southern California; Mr. Frank A. Sanders, for years manager of the stores' department of the Shannon Copper company; Mr. W. W. Bearman, one of the most prominent attorneys in Los Angeles, and Mr. A. C. Shively, recently representing the Credit Clearing House.

In addition to this strong board of directors the A. Ferber Company Inc. has been fortunate in securing some very prominent leading business men as stockholders in their company. Among some of the well known stockholders of the A. Ferber company Inc., may be mentioned Mr. Charles C. Chapman of Los Angeles and Fullerton; Mr. W. Donald Hyde of the Wood & Hyde company, makers of the famous Gydecape glove leather; Ritenberg Bros., one of the leading woolen houses of New York City; Mr. S. J. Fox of the Lion Clothing company of San Diego; Mr. E. K. Benchley, president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Fullerton, and dozens of others of high-class businessmen.

The class of stock the A. Ferber Company Inc. has been and is issuing, is 7 per cent accumulative preferred, carrying with it a share for share bonus of common stock, the combination of which form about a 69 per cent participation in the dividends of the company. The company have direct control of their own wholesale establishment and are equipped to serve the public as efficiently as the best stores located in the largest cities, both from a standpoint of service and that of economy. This type of operation means, not only success for the company, but supplies a need that the smaller communities can well appreciate. To quote their store policy, "It is our aim to fill an economic want long felt in the medium size cities of Southern California—the facilities of purchasing the right goods at a price that will compare favorably with the very lowest prices that the largest city stores afford."

When the new A. Ferber company Inc. department stores throws open its doors at Broadway and Maryland on November 27 the public will have an opportunity to examine one of the best planned and executed layouts for department stores in operation that there exists in Southern California. The building was expressly built according to standards of the best department store requirements, and Mr. Ferber collaborated with the architect in designing a structure capable of giving the maximum service. Among the departments contemplated are the following, and work is hastening so that they will all be ready on the opening date:

Shoes, drugs and fountains, men's furnishings, handkerchiefs, embroideries, neckwear and fancy goods, radio and electrical appliances, millinery, coats, suits and sweaters, dresses, skirts, waists; music room, phonographs, records and sheet music; trunks and bags; gloves, silk and dress goods; hosiery; umbrellas; leather goods; men's and boy's clothing and hats; silks and muslin lingerie; furs, carpets and rugs; blankets; notions; cretonnes and draperies, knit underwear; laces; jewelry; beauty parlor; women's and misses' ready-to-wear; infants' shop; house furnishings; furniture and art goods.

Today's issue carries a full page ad of the announcement of the Ferber's removal sale, and it is the intention of this progressive firm to close out every dollar's worth of merchandise at their 108 South Brand boulevard location at reduced prices, in spite of the fact that the store is less than six months old. The A. Ferber Company Inc. believe in a policy of complete clean-ups.

We take this occasion to congratulate the A. Ferber Company Inc. for the splendid progress they have made and to share with them their pleasure in having made such a splendid impression on the Glendale public and vicinity in the short space of time that they have been operating.

GREAT INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION SHOWN

Tremendous industrial and railroad expansion in California is indicated during the last fiscal year by the large increase in the number of applications to the state railroad commission for permits to construct, maintain and operate spur tracks with its resulting increase in the number of grade crossings.

The commission continued its work in the survey of grade crossings, and the study of plans for the elimination of grade crossing hazards during the year. A total of 1709 grade crossings and separated grades were inspected during the year, making a total of 8927 crossings inspected by the commission since the inauguration of this work in 1916.

All of the 446 grade crossings on the state highways were inspected by the commission's experts, who estimated that the cost of separating the grades at these grade crossings would aggregate $14,044,500.

Owing to limited funds the commission has been unable to prosecute the work of surveying grade crossings, and planning for the removal of the menace to traffic at the more dangerous crossings by the institution of formal proceedings, having for their object the ordering of separations of grades and the apportionment of the cost thereof among the various principals involved

DR. THOMPSON WILL PRACTICE ORTHODONTIA

Dr. C. E. Thompson, a graduate of the Southern California Dental College, also a graduate of the Dewey School of Orthodontia of New York, has opened an office at 312 Lawson building, corner of Brand and Wilson, this city. There he expects to practice orthodontia (the straightening of teeth) to the exclusion of other lines of dental work. His practice quite naturally will be largely with children, although adults frequently need his help. Dr. Thompson is young and enthusiastic. Though a newcomer in Glendale he is already an ardent booster of the town. At the present time he is residing in Los Angeles, but expects to make his home in this city.

MONTROSE NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Palmer of 312 East Honolulu avenue were Wednesday evening the hosts at a delightful house warming given in the form of a Hallowe'en party. The rooms were artistically decorated in appropriate colors, huge yellow chrysanthemums forming the floral pieces used in table decorations. Dancing and card playing followed the supper hour. The guests included Dr. and Mrs. Telfer, Mr. More and Miss Oakley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oakley, Glen Oakley and mother, Marian and Harry Oakley, Mr. and Mrs. Jennings Young, Mr .and Mrs. S. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, Messrs. Alvin and Elmer Vilmur and Mr. John Cameron.

Mrs. Frank Turner, who left some days ago for San Francisco, to receive medical treatment, is reported as quite seriously ill.

A Hallowe'en affair enjoyed by a number of young people of Montrose was the party held at the home of Miss Janet Culberson, popular member of the younger set. Dancing and games were enjoyed. Refreshments of an especially delectable nature were served.

Mrs. Leach, mothers of Mrs. Frank Turner and Mrs. Drey of Verdugo Woodlands, is having a charming little cottage constructed on her daughter's lot in Verdugo. She plans to make her home there when the cozy house is completed.

At the meeting held Thursday night in the La Crescenta school house it was decided to discontinue all action toward incorporation of Montrose and La Crescenta for the present. Though the Montrose chamber of commerce as a whole was very much in favor of incorporation, the La Crescenta Improvement association members seemed not to favor the action, as they felt such plan to be somewhat premature. A good many arguments in favor of incorporation were put that could not be beat, but it seemed the consensus of opinion that the matter should not be pushed when there were so many dissenting voices.

Mrs. J. M. Copeland of Olive avenue recently purchased five acres of land back of the Presbyterian church and will probably resell the property for building lots. The purchase was made through the firm of Carter & Griffith, Montrose realtors.

Dr. Turner was a business visitor in Los Angeles this morning.

Miss Gladys Keller, a member of the office force of the Montrose State bank, has returned to her home after having spent some time in the hospital as the result of an accident.

Interesting to dance lovers comes the announcement of a dance to be given November 10 by the Montrose chamber of commerce. The affair wil bel held in the La Crescenta school house auditorium. Arrangements are being made by the entertainment committee of the chamber for a rousing good time. The organization plans to give at least one dance a month to which not only members, but the general public will be invited.

Mr. Theodore Ballanger of the drug store states that quite a number of clever slogans have been handed to him since the announcement that he would give five dollars to the composer of the best motto for Montrose. The contest closes November 6, at which time the directors of the chamber of commerce will be asked to pick the winner and award the prize at the big get-to-gether meeting to be held on the evening of that date.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Carter are looking forward to the arrival of James Holliman and family, who are making the trip to Montrose by auto from Oklahoma. The Hollimans are old friends of the Carters. They will make their home here.

Dr. Frank Riley has just returned from an extended trip to Escuinapa, Palmito del Verde, Mexico, where he has been working on manuscripts for books soon to be published. For over six years he has been the speaker for the New Thought Center and his many admirers will be very glad to have him with them again.

Rev. Fred E. Hagin of 634 Howard street left Glendale yesterday for New York City, where he will be engaged for six months in raising funds for a school for boys under the auspices of the Home Missions department of the Christian church. He will also deliver lectures throughout the east on the "Second Coming of Christ."

Happiness may be far better than wealth, but the average man would like to try a large dose of each simultaneously.

These Strikers Lose $2,800,000 in 91 Days

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Nov. 2.—Strikes cost the workers of New South Wales $2,813,100 in wages during the three months ended June 30, according to state officials.

The strike fever seemed to have affected the mother state mainly, for of the 48 industrial disputes in Australia, involving more than 20,000 workers directly and indirectly, there were only three serious strikes in Victoria, five in Queensland, and one in South Australia. Western Australia and Tasmania appear to have enjoyed perfect peace industrially, as not one dispute was reported from either of these districts.

At a recent function here delegates to the conference of the Employers' Federation of Australia issued a direct invitation to the employes to discuss their differences, not behind the barricades of the arbitration court, but over a friendly table.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenrhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed Roberts & Echols to dispense Allenrhu with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.—Adv.

Eleanor Glyn, author of "Three Weeks," has given the screen one of her most daring, yet beautiful, stories. The mad chase across the Atlantic—the auction of a society beauty to the highest bidder—the explosion that imprisons two lovers for six wonderful days.

The cast includes Corinne Griffith, Frank Mayo, Myrtle Stedman, Claud King, Spottiswoode Aitken and other favorites.

TOOK FIVE DAYS TO FILM FIGHT IN "THE SPOILERS"

Milton Sills and Noah Beery, principals in Jesse D. Hampton's picturization of "The Spoilers," claim the world's championship in the long distance fighting handicap.

Sills, playing the role of Glennister, and Beery in the role of McNamara, battled five straight days, shed quantities of real gore and received more black and blue spots than there are on a Chinese lottery ticket before they satisfied Director Lambert Hillyer.

They were taking scenes in the fight which occurs between the two enemies in Rex Beach's novel, "The Spoilers," which has its last showings today at the Gateway theater, and were determined to outdo the famous screen battle staged by William Farnum and Tom Santschi in a film version of the book made ten years ago.

Many Stars in "Hollywood"

Shooting stars? Karl Brown, cameraman for James Cruze, has shot many of them with his trusty lens and he photographed practically every big figure in Paramount pictures during the making of "Hollywood" which comes to the Gateway theater tomorrow.

THREE BAD MEN IN THRILLING FILM AT T. D. & L.

Who is the "bad man" of "The Bad Man?"

Contrary to all expectations, Holbrook Blinn, who portrays the role of "The Bad Man," a First National attraction which is at the T. D. & L. theater again today, is not the "bad man."

Blinn portrays the role of "Pancho Lopez," and while he may be a bold, bad bandit when he is in Mexico, all of his fire is stolen by two Americanos the moment he steps across the Mexican-American border.

As a matter of fact there are three "bad men" in the production, one of whom is "bad" in name only. Blinn, throughout the production, is a very kindly, philosophical bandit with very delightful views on life. The real "bad men" are "Jasper Hardy," played by Stanton Heck and "Morgan Pell," played by Walter McGrail.

Enid Bennett and a star cast also appeal in the picture.

RENEE ADOREE IN "THE SIX-FIFTY" AT THE GLENDALE

He was a son of the soil—a giant with a child's heart, and his whole life was his farm—and his love for HER!

She loved him—but the deadly monotony of it after two years, and the knowledge that he might never aspire to more than his meager bit of ground in the wilderness, drove her from him.

Into the white lights of Broadway she plunged. There came another man—a man of the city and its different ways. He was a man with the glamor of Broadway about him. He loved her. He had millions. And then——

The denouncement is one of the most striking episodes ever screened; it was great as a Broadway play, but it is greater on the screen. And—you'd never guess it until you saw the picture! Don't miss "The Six-Fifty" which comes to the Glendale theater next week, with an all-star cast headed by Renee Adoree. Also five acts of good vaudeville.

DRAMA SECTION STUDIES LIFE AND WORK OF MILNE

About thirty-five members of the drama section of the Tuesday Afternoon club attended the regular meeting of that department at the clubhouse on Friday afternoon, with the curator, Mrs. Max Green, presiding. Plans were discussed for the section's part in the club's society circus on November 16 and 17. As the next regular meeting of the section would fall on November 16, it was decided that the session will meet instead on Friday, November 9, for a business session, when details for the circus would be arranged.

It was announced that Mrs. W. E. Halstead would be chairman in charge of the refreshment fund and look after the hostesses for the various meetings. Mrs. Green told of a meeting she and Mrs. Barker had attended recently of the Drama League, when some splendid talks were given by many people prominent in the dramatic world.

The program for the afternoon was on the life and work of A. A. Milne, Mrs. R. L. Galvin read a brief account of the life of Milne, who was born in 1882. Mrs. Gowan gave a review of Mr. Milne's book, "Mr. Pim Passes By." Members of the section read from his book, "Dover Road," which is a satire on domestic life. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served in the tea room, with Mrs. W. L. Andrews and Mrs. Bentley as the hostesses.

REGULAR MEETING OF K. C. COUNCIL THURSDAY NIGHT

Regular meeting of Glendale Council No. 1920, Knights of Columbus, was held at the club house at 330 East Lomita avenue on Thursday evening with Grand Knight Jesse Smith presiding. The resignation of Charles Griffin as lecturer was accepted and Frank Salmacia was appointed to fill the vacancy. Mr. Salmacia outlined the programs planned for the year.

The council decided to hold a card party and dance for members of the Holy Family parish on Saturday, November 17. Details will be announced later. The next meeting of the council will be held on November 15.

GREAT PROGRAM FOR VISITORS TO COUNTRY CLUB HIGHLANDS

THRILLS GALORE ARE ON PROGRAM AT THIS FINE HOMESITE SUBDIVISION

Gladys Roy, the World's Leading Aviatrix, Will Show Some of Her Hair-Raising Achievements, Assisted by Her Pilot, Kenneth Montee

BIG BARBECUE TO BE SERVED AT NOON

Buck Jones and Other Movie Stars Will 'Do Their Stuff'—Music Will be Furnished by Floyd Reese and His Coastonian Orchestra

Death defying thrills, a luscious barbecue, more thrills, the presentation of one of the most popular stars of filmdom, cash prizes, music by a famous orchestra, and finally the giving away of a Ford to some lucky visitor—such will be the program at Country Club Highlands this Sunday. From the start of the entertainment at eleven o'clock until the program is concluded there will not be an idle moment.

Promptly at eleven o'clock, Gladys Roy, the original death defying avaitrix and her pilot Kenneth Montee will take off. Her stunts will include some of the most daring performances ever attempted. She will demonstrate all the daring feats that have made her the most famed aviatrix of all time. Among them, in response to popular demand, she will again repeat her most daring accomplishment—standing on the top wing of a speeding plane while it does a double loop.

Following her performance a mammoth barbecue will be held. One of the southland's most famous open air cooks will be on hand to see that everything is properly seasoned, and that all have a sufficiency. There will be barbecued chicken and lamb, baked beans, home made cake and everything that goes with it. To provide entertainment during the noon-day feast, Floyd Reese and his Coastonian orchestra of the original Club Royale of New York City, will run off some of their most popular numbers. They will also play a frequent intervals throughout the entire afternoon.

At 2 o'clock Miss Roy will again take off with the intention of bettering one of her many parachute drop records—she holds the women's altitude drop and shortest drop records of the world. Shortly afterwards, Buck Jones, celebrated Fox star in western characterizations, his wife, and their western trained horses will take the center of the stage. They will entertain with daring feats of riding, broncho busting and roping, and will afterwards assist in the distribution of the cash prizes to be given away. As a fitting conclusion to the program, some lucky visitor will be presented with a new Ford touring car.

Such will be the program—there will be fun for the kiddies and entertainment for all. However, with the ever increasing demand for lots adjacent to Exposition boulevard, if last Sunday can be taken as indicative, it looks again like pleasure will be subordinate to business in the minds of the visitors. Throughout the whole of last week, investors, full well appreciating the part Exposition boulevard is destined to play in the further growth of Los Angeles, hurried to obtain the desirable locations on this new highway. As a result sales figures have soared skyward—people are talking Exposition boulevard—and the demand is fast overtaking the supply of lots there.

Just what this boulevard will be, and the part it is destined to play, as the main artery connecting terminals of great importance is best explained by Gordon Whitnall, director of the city planning commission. In an article recently published he states, "Exposition boulevard is one of the hundreds of streets in Los Angeles that today is of little importance. Many people do not know it exists. Fewer still know where it is. That is the condition today.

"The same thing could once be said of Western avenue, Vermont avenue, Wilshire boulevard, Washington street, Pico street, Whittier boulevard, Hollywood boulevard, Glendale boulevard, Pasadena avenue and down the list of the outstanding thoroughfares of present Los Angeles.

"But today these important highways stand out against the average city street like embossed lines on a plain white letterhead. Those streets have not developed into what they are today by accident. They are the natural result of very definite conditions. By locating these thoroughfares on a map of the Los Angeles district and subjecting them to close study, it will be found that all of these possess certain characteristics that distinguish them from the network of other streets. Usually, they are long streets.

"Always they are through strects. Invariably, they connect two or more important centers or act as distributing feeders into important areas. Frequently, they are wide streets and all of them will widen. This is inevitable.

"Exposition boulevard over most of its present short length is narrow. Only along the northerly edge of Exposition Park is it wide. In all other requisites for an important thoroughfare it seems to be lacking.

"Yet, Exposition boulevard is a thoroughfare of prime importance.

"This seeming paradox, however, is not a contradiction. The apparent lack of essentials to an important thoroughfare exist in fact in respect to Exposition boulevard.

"The fact that they are not evident is due only to the fact that they have not yet been fully developed. It is inevitable, however, that they shall develop."

That people appreciate the investment opportunities in this property bounded by the two great boulevards, Pico and Exposition, is shown both by the remarkable sales records and numerous resales. In 70 days over $1,000,000 worth of property has been sold. Correspondingly, resales have been numerous, only last Sunday two lots being sold for a profit of $1400, although purchasers only had held them for 60 days.

HOME CHANGES COST MONEY

It is impossible to say which is right without a full knowledge of the conditions under which the extra work was undertaken.

It is not an all unusual for the owner to think he is being robbed for extras on a building job. The fact is that the contractor must charge a higher rate for changes than for the same work if it had appeared in the original plans to cover the lost time and added expense of such changes.

Most contractors for that reason would be glad to know that they need never again bother with an extra on any of their work. The remedy is evidently to know what you want before calling for bids and make your changes only on paper. A little more care and study of the plans will permit all changes being made by the architect and avoid unprofitable and unsatisfactory adjustment of prices for their corrections.

An architect should be able to pass on the fairness of the extra charges and he should have agreed on them before the work was done. If the contractor is a responsible business man and is confident he can convince a court of the fairness of his claims, it would be advisable that you make a careful investigation and determine if you may not be in the wrong yourself.

IMPORTANCE OF WINDOWS IS SHOWN

"Eyes of Home" Add or Detract From Its Appearance

Windows, the eyes of the home, are of great importance as a factor in making a home radiate cheer and beauty.

They enable us to enjoy the fresh air, the sunshine, and spread before us nature's ever changing glory and man-made creations and are ever pleading with us for a fuller understanding between art and man.

Personality in the choice of textiles and the treatment of windows can have its cherished fling, so it is important that taste be so developed that the right kind of personality be manifest.

There are four important factors to consider in the treatment of windows:

1—Architectural design.
2—Color scheme.
3—Suitability.
4—Beauty of line.

Care must be taken that the glass, curtains and draperies fulfill their mission—to frame the window, form the keynote for the color scheme, soften the light, and through beauty of line, bring that harmony in balance between the ceiling and floor that is so important.

If the ceiling be a low one, a good treatment for the windows is to have the overdraperies not over 18 inches wide and both draperies and glass curtains of floor length and no valances.

If the ceiling be a very high one, it can apparently be lowered by having the overdraperies wide and connected by all-over valances.

For beauty of line, have the draperies and curtains drop to the floor.

Casment windows need a special treatment.

Since this type of window generally opens in, the net or gauze should be hung from a rod placed on the casement and either stretched on a rod on the lower frame of the window or weighted with fringe or small weights concealed by lining or several folds of the goods.

If the window treatment is to include a valance, the rod for the overdraperies should be placed from 12 to 14 inches above the casement and to extend six inches beyond the side casement on either side of the windows, that the overdraperies may not interfere with the opening of the casements and that the valance may be in good proportion when it drops to within one-half inch of the casements.

Arched windows may be treated with a filled-in sunburst in the curved portion and draperies and curtains hung on a straight rod or a molding may be fitted into the curve to which the curtains are attached.

WASTE BOULDERS MAY BE USED

In driving from Los Angeles to San Bernardino over the Foothill boulevard, all along the way, and especially in the neighborhood of Upland great piles of field boulders may be seen.

These boulders were gathered from the ground when it was originally cleared for tilling.

They now perform no useful service, but thus heaped up in disorderly piles, are rather unsightly than otherwise.

In reality, they constitute very valuable building material.

Why are they not used as such?

Because of the high cost of transporting them to places where they can be used, you may say; but this is not a sufficient excuse.

In order to realize that it is not, let us shift the scene to England, the land noted for the beauty of its countryside.

England, too, had field boulders scattered over its uncleared ground at one time.

Were they stacked up in useless piles when the land was cleared? They were not.

Right at hand there was use for them.

No need of "transporting" them to distant places.

Instead, they were made into stone walls marking property boundary lines, thus not only saving the cost of wire or other poor looking fences, but helping to make the land a synonym for rural beauty.

Now, there is no reason on earth why this same thing cannot be done by thoughtful ranchmen, and the only reason it has not oftener been done is because our country is still so new that we have not yet realized all the possibilities at hand for improving it.

In the rapid development of our country, let us not lose sight of this element of beauty.

It is one of the most valuable assets of England and is already the same with us.

But without any more expense, and just a little more thought, it could become much more so.

Let us have more stone fences when stone can be had for the picking.

HOME IS HEART OF THIS NATION

An educational campaign to restore "Home, Sweet Home," to something of its original meaning will be undertaken by the Chicago real estate board in connection with its third annual "Own Your Home" exposition.

To symbolize the ideal of home ownership the exposition has adopted as its official emblem a sketch of the original "Home, Sweet Home," still standing at East Hampton, N. Y., birthplace of John Howard Payne, author of the immortal song.

This sketch inclosed within a heart-shaped border, and bearing the caption, "Home, the Heart of the Nation," will be used on all advertising and printed matter issued by the exposition and hundreds of thousands of stickers bearing the design in black, gray, gold and vermilion, the official colors of the exposition, will be issued.

It was the memory of his boyhood home that inspired Payne, during the years he lived in Paris, to write the song.

The house although built in 1660 has been completely restored and furnished in accordance with the traditions of its period and stands as something of a national shrine.

"Less than 50 per cent of America's population live in real homes, the census reports show," said William Zelosky, vice president of the real estate board. "In Chicago the situation is worse. 73 per cent of the population are tenants—flat hunters, without any fixed abode or real home ties.

"We believe Chicago will be a better city when the percentage of home ownership is brought up, at least to the general average for the nation. Through the exposition we want to show the people of Chicago what a real home means. In addition, our exhibits will visualize every step in the process of acquiring a home, from the starting of the first bank account to furnishing the completed house and laying out the garden."

ADVICE TO HOME BUILDERS

If you are about to build, first obtain as complete a set of plans as possible so the contractor will not have to divine your intentions by some occult process of reasoning (or will have to add a certain sum to his bid to protect himself from uncertainties due to indefiniteness of the plans), then exercise discrimination in selecting the contractors whom you want to bid, just as you would do in choosing a physician or a lawyer, and then if you treat the chosen man right and don't expect from him more than you should, the chances are that you will find it a real pleasure to work with him.

SELECT HONEST CONTRACTOR

It is always considered good business to have the contractor under bond. You might be mistaken in your judgment of his integrity, under unforeseen circumstances or he might, through no fault of his own, be unable to properly complete his part of the contract.

AUSTRALIAN TREE IS IDEAL FOR HOME

The Australian bush cherry, known to the nursery trade as Eugenia myrtifolia, is an ornamental plant, with a slight economic value also, that has been grown in Southern California for many years.

It is most commonly used in formal planting, as a bush or small tree, and is very often clipped to pyramid or standard forms.

If permitted to grow unrestrainedly it will attain an ultimate height of from 60 to 80 feet, becoming a handsome tree of very graceful habit and outline.

Two such trees exist, to the writer's knowledge, in Santa Barbara county.

Eugenia myrtifolia has a small, bright green leaf, which densely clothes its stems.

The new growth of foliage and the winter tones generally assume a deep red or bronze color which makes this plant stand out in contrast to the majority about it.

The flowers are those of the true myrtle, white in color, up to an inch in diameter, and completely clothe the tree during the flowering season.

They are followed by green fruits that develop into distinctive qualities of appearance, much resembling the cranberry in size, in shape and in color.

The color is a very distinctive deep wine-red.

The fruit is used in making jelly.

The flavor is mild, bearing no quality that makes it particularly desirable for jelly purposes.

The color is, however, retained throughout the cooking and makes a clear, attractive product.

If used with other fruits, for the addition of their flavor, the Australian brush cherry should be a valuable addition to the culinary supplies of the jelly season.

Because of its rapid growth and dense foliage it has become quite popular as a clipped plant in formal gardens.

It readily assumes a columnar shape, with the minimum of attention, and can be kept within bounds of shape and size for a considerable time.

Although extreme cold will injure or kill this plant, it will withstand the ordinary winters of the average locality in Southern California.

It is tolerant of water and fairly resistant to drought. It thrives inland and in our coast cities.

It is a splendid all-around garden plant and should be used more in situations where it may be allowed to develop without restraint.

A near relative to this plant is one which goes under the trade name of Eugenia hookeriana.

It is quite similar to the above in all of its characteristics, excepting that it has a larger leaf and, consequently, a coarser texture.

There are no very old specimens of this species to demonstrate its possibilities, but it gives promise of another excellent garden tree.

It is obtainable from our local nurserymen.

SNUGGLING DOWN INTO THE FOOTHILLS, CASTLE HEIGHTS APPEALS TO THE BUYER

WONDER SUBDIVISION OF NORTHWEST EXPERIENCES GREAT SALES ACTIVITY

More Than $50,000 Worth of Lots Were Sold During the Past Seven Weeks in This Tract, and Demand for Homesites Growing Daily

BEAUTIFUL HOMES ARE NOW BEING BUILT

Price of Lots and the Reasonable Terms, Along With Many Natural Advantages Are Responsible for —Street Work Now Being Finished

As the days wear away and the lots in the beautiful northwestern part of Glendale, one by one, are taken by those who realize the wonders of that charming location, the available homesites in Castle Heights are dwindling in number and growing in value. There is just so much of that beautiful hillslope property and the person who is hoping some day to secure one of those desirable building locations will, if he is wise, make the initial payment without delay.

Years and years ago Mr. Brand traveled this country over in his endeavor to find an ideal place for his home. This entire country was open to him and he was free to select the spot of his choice. He chose the beautiful location now known as Brand's canyon, where Mr. Brand's estate is located.

Castle Heights is next door to Brand's castle. It is close to the place where, years and years ago, Mr. Brand selected as the most beautiful spot in the entire valley. Money could not buy the Brand estate, but a very little will purchase a homesite in this tract.

Fifty thousand dollars worth of property, representing half of the lots in Castle Heights, have already been disposed of, according to the owners and subdividers of the tract. Hamlin & Hepburn, 203 West Broadway, Glendale. This tract, which is one of the most beautiful pieces of land out-of-doors, is situated on Mountain street, immediately adjoining the golf course of L. C. Brand.

The prices at which these lots are being sold—$1750 to $2750—have a great deal to do with the volume of sales in this tract. The terms, too, are an important feature. These lots are being sold on a down payment of $300 with two per cent per month.

Everything in the way of improvements is included in the price of these lots, such as water, gas, curbs, gutters, sidewalks and good macadam streets.

The grade stakes for Winchester, and Mountain streets in this tract have been set and within a few days the work of street grading will be under way and it will be rushed to completion.

There are just a few lots left in this tract. The wonderful view that may be secured from these homesites and the cooling breezes that come direct from the Pacific to this tract have literally compelled sales. It is only necessary for the owners of this tract to show the property—the charm of the tract does the rest.

MEXICO WILL REBUILD NAVY BY SUBSCRIPTION

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 2.—The Mexican navy, which has declined virtually to the status of the Swiss, is to be rebuilt by public subscription. The Pro-Navy committee has launched a campaign to raise a fund of 38,704,000 pesos with which it hopes to buy four transports, 15 coast guard cutters, 12 river gunboats, two tankers, and one school ship. Later the purchase of another school ship for officers and a few destroyers and submarines is contemplated.

HERE'S CIVIC PLAN THAT SEEMS GOOD

The village of Claremont, Calif., in which is situated Pomona College, is fostering a most commendable work for civic improvement that might to advantage be emulated by the majority of communities, large and small.

From the recently organized Chamber of Commerce in Claremont has evolved the City Beautiful Club, which is taking upon itself the responsibility of encouraging and aiding the home owners of its citizenry to beautify their home grounds and thus work towards the village beautiful.

It was the wish of this club to make available to those citizens who desired it the professional advice of one trained in the problems and aesthetic possibilities of the landscape profession, so that the owners of fifty foot lots might develop them to the highest of their possibilities.

It is an idea not altogether original in its general aspects, but highly commendable and decidedly unique in this section of the world.

As the average goes, it is seldom that the small home owner feels ready to afford the professional fee that must necessarily be charged by one asked to make a special visit of consultation and advice regarding the development of the small front yard, and yet the need for such advice is very patent, and the decided limitation of space often exasgerates the problems at hand.

Realizing this comon need and the inaccessibility of such service to the average Mr. Citizen, the City Beautiful Club of Claremont has arranged with a landscape architect to make a number of professional visits to its village, during which his time is allotted to those homeowners that have requested for the service.

In this way he can serve a number of clients in a day, instead of making a special trip for one fifty foot lot, as would ordinarily be the case, and the relative costs are lessened.

The theory is that many attractive homes will make an attractive city.

In the case at hand, the City Beautiful Club is meeting all expenses and is donating this service to its members, an unusually generous act even for a public spirited organization.

Already there have been forty-five homes served in this small town, and there are still citizens waiting for their turn at "free service."

That the service is enthusiastically received is evidenced by the number of people who quickly acquire and set out the plants that have been recommended for their front yards.

Whether such service is contributed to the community by some organization or whether the expense is pro-rated among those who avail themselves of the landscape service, the idea of spending a day with a number of people, instead of visiting but one fifty-fot lot, makes the professional advice available to those who might not otherwise be able to afford it.

An arrangements similar to the above has been carried out in Santa Paula, but, in the latter case, the expense for travel and professional advice was pooled and prorated among those who employed the service.

As an idea, and in practical experience, such service is a splendid thing for any community and is of a nature that should appeal to the property owners and to any right-minded professional man.

PROPER CHIMNEY LININGS ARE NEEDED

For Protection of Life and Property Good Flue Demanded

One never realizes as he sits in the warmth and glow of a fire, or labors over a stove, of the wealth of experimentation expended to keep that heat from injuring life and property.

Hidden from sight, often between the walls, is the chimney flue.

We never give it a thought as it draws up the myriad of little sparks or the fatal gases without leaving the slightest trace of odor.

But it really is one of the most important features of a home and it is as impossible for the best mechanic to produce a good chimney from improper materials as it would be to make a watch of muslin.

The ordinary brick and mortar chimney, as commonly constructed, is laid up with sand and cement mortar. Sometimes it is plastered on the inside to make the chimney smooth.

The heat in time causes the mortar to dry out and disintegrate, collecting in piles at the foot of the chimney and leaving holes through the chimney walls.

Sand is a risky ingredient in flue linings. Heat transforms sand into clinkers. Heat breaks up a wall containing sand and develops cracks.

Such a condition usually goes unnoticed and is a constant source of danger from fire.

It has been authentically determined that improperly constructed chimney flues were responsible for a fire every hour of every day over a period of three years back, resulting in the total loss of over $16,000,000.

It is a fact, though many have learned it too late, that the mortar joints of an unlined chimney crack and crumble from the heat.

Chimneys that are uneven or rough inside choke up with soot and fail to draw off the gases, known among miners as "Choke Damp," which is given off by any fire.

A slight trace of this gas, "carbon monoxide," often causes serious illness and is always bound to produce headache and languor.

One is prone to assume that the tiny jets of a gas stove can be accommodated by any kind of a flue, but the first fire from overflowing fat happened a long time ago and there have been many of them since.

The chimney of a gas stove may be called upon but once to withstand the severest of service and if it not lined properly, once may be too often.

The sure remedy for all chimney ills, including fire hazard, smokey chimneys and poor draught, is by the use of fire clay flue lining.

Fire clay flue lining, as its name implies is manufactured from carefully selected refractory clays.

It is made in two foot lengths, of different sizes and shapes to suit varying conditions and is burned at 800 degrees Fahrenheit.

This causes any weakness to develop before it is sold.

Fire clay flue lining fireproofs a chimney from bottom to top—for a few dollars!

Its smooth surface does not gather soot. This reduces chances of flying sparks.

Also, it saves costly chimney sweepings, and the smooth, clean, leakless flue causes the chimney to draw better.

Fire clay flue lining, specified by leading architects, used by reputable builders and required by ordinances of the national board of fire underwriters, prevents 30 per cent of residence fires by making it impossible for flames to reach woodwork through defective flues, and by preventing burning soot and sparks on the roof.

For a very few dollars, it really insures the results of your labor. Fire clay flue lining is better than the protection of insurance, because it is the assurance of protection.

THE OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB TO BE OPENED BY CHRISTMAS

LATEST INFORMATION IS WELCOME NEWS TO ALL LOCAL MEMBERS OF CLUB

The Club House, the Golf Course, the Swimming Pool and the Tennis Courts Are Nearing Completion; All Are Beautiful in the Extreme

Announcement that Oakmont Country Club, with its golf course, swimming pool and tennis courts, is nearly completed, and will be open by the holidays in all probability, has started the fall season's sales at Montecito Park in Sparr Heights at a heavy pace.

This was the report yesterday of Barnum-Walters Co., developers of the great 1500-acre residential city five minutes north of Glendale on the Verdugo road.

"Country club values in Southern California are well known," the Barnum-Walters company report on Montecito Park sales prograss asserts. "Where a high class country club and golf links is started there is an immediate increase in values of surrounding land. And Sparr Heights, the new residential city, and its restricted hillslopes, Montecito Park, completely surround the Oakmont country club, which bought its 115-acre plant from us."

Hundreds of men are driving unusually high class improvements at Montecito Park. The improvements for Montecito Park and Sparr Heights already have cost several hundred thousand dollars and are being kept steadily ahead of building operations as far as possible.

Scores of fine homes are being erected in the new residential city. Stores and other local services in Sparr Heights are keeping pace.

"Anyone who saw Sparr Heights and its Montecito Park a year ago and hasn't been there since, will have difficulty in realizing that in that time we have not only improved hundreds of acres but have also sold $2,000,000 worth of property which was barren of improvement or homes twelve short months ago," asserted Mr. Walters of the subdividing firm.

"We are regarding Sparr Heights as a whole and its higher class residential action of Montecito Park as a permanent work which will take us years. As a result when the work is completed, Sparr Heights will be one of the most beautiful residential districts any city ever saw. It will be the pride of Glendale and the big sister city of Los Angeles.

"Beautiful homes of the type now arising will range in terrace after terrace up to the tops of the Verdugo and San Rafael hills. In the broad acres between the hills will be the business and bungalow home district with the Sparr Heights community building which we built free for our new people and are temporarily using as our main office, in the center. To the south of this beautiful building, with its auditorium and stage, is the Oakmont country club.

"Remarkably fast time has been made by the builders of the Oakmont country club, considering the conscientious detail they are putting into the old-English manse style of structure. It is low and rambling, with plenty of gables and half-timbered effects in the stucco. Set against the green hills it is certainly a beauty.

"It will contain a great swimming pool and there will be tennis courts and an 18-hole golf course, which is rapidly getting into shape. It is said that the course will be one of the sportiest in California. Montecito Park lots, every one of them, command a complete view of this picturesque club building with its mountain background."

H. E. Barnum, Mr. Walter's partner in this $12,000,000 enterprise, is convinced that the thoroughness of the improvements has a great deal to do with the splendid sales record made.

"Concrete streets in many parts of the tract are proving a big attraction to buyers," Mr. Barnum asserted.

REGINA, Saskatchewan.—Of the 526 girls that have been brought to Saskatchewan from the British Isles since 1920 to June 15, 1923, only six have returned overseas, and of the sum of $45,411 advanced to the girls the sum of $42,980 has been repaid, 400 having repaid their loan in full and the balance of 125 paying all but the sum of $2,430. The girls came to Canada to positions as household workers.

"English as she is Japped," is the term given by Anglo-Saxons in the orient to the weird effect produced sometimes by Japanese in their effort to employ English in their shop signs. This oriental capacity for using our mother tongue with strange twists of unconscious humor is perhaps no better exemplified than in the wording of a sign on a Japanese baker's shop: "A. Kashinuru, Biggest Loafer in Tokio."

MAGNOLA PARK DRAWS MANY BUYERS

Magnolia Park, lying between Burbank and Lankershim on Magnolia boulevard, is one of the "coming" localities of this entire section. It lies right in the heart of growth—in the path of advancement. It is situated in a section that has up to this time been what might be termed "undiscovered," its values and beauties having not been realized.

"We want every person in Southern California to see Magnolia Park," said the manager of the Magnolia Park Development company, subdividers for E. L. White, owner, this morning. "We want you to see this superb piece of ground lying between two of Los Angeles' fastest growing districts. A trip out to Magnolia Park will convince even the most skeptical that here is the place above all others to invest in a lot. Building activity, like a great vice, is steadily clamping down on Magnolia Park from the east and west. A great paved boulevard bounds Magnolia Park to the South.

"Consider Magnolia Park from all angles. You will agree with us that values should more than double within the next few months. Consider Magnolia Park as a homesite. Commanding as it does, the most magnificent vistas in all Southern California, with climatic conditions that cannot be equaled, Magnolia Park will be your first choice for a homesite. Consider the price of these lots. Nowhere else in all Southern California can you obtain a big 50-foot lot right in the swing of tremendous development for $500. Improvements? Certainly. Gas, water, lights, streets, curbs and cement sidewalks fully paid for. The improvements alone will enhance the value of each lot at least 25 per cent.

"To get there drive from Hollywood over Cahuenga pass, then by Universal City to Lankershim, turning right on Fourth street to tract. Or, San Fernando boulevard to Burbank and left on Magnolia boulevard to tract. If you haven't a car, call us by phone and a car with a courteous driver will call for you."

QUEBEC, Quebec. — Statistics compiled by the Provincial automobile bureau covering the first seven months of the automobile year, which open on March 1, shows that there has been a still further increase in the number of cars in the province of Quebec. For the whole province the figures are as follows: touring cars, 66,728; trucks, 8,551; auto busses, 240; motorcycles, 1,585; total, 74,801. Last year there was a total of 60,940 cars registered in the province.

KENILWORTH PARK MAKES BIG RECORD

A wonderful sales record has been made in connection with Kenilworth Park. Five hundred and sixty thousand dollars worth of lots in that tract were sold during the past six months, according to W. P. MacMullin of the firm of MacMullin & McPhereson, corner Broadway and Central.

In this tract there were 100 acres, which have been cut into 5000 lots, which were sold at prices ranging from $1,200 to $2,000. The building restrictions in this tract range from $3,000 to $5,000.

One feature of this tract is the 160-foot boulevard that runs through it from the east to west. This is known as Fourth street, along which the Pacific Electric runs. The railroad company has a 40-foot right of way and on either side of this is a 40-foot roadway.

Ten homes are already under construction in this tract and plans for 54 others are being drawn at this time.

WONDER FOOTHILL LOTS ARE OFFERED

A few real jewels in foothill building sites are now being offered by the Max Woods Realty company, with offices at room 401 of the Lawson building. These homesites snuggle cozily at the foot of the green Verdugo hills and are extremely desirable. Most of these lots are covered with full-grown navel orange trees, which add greatly to their value. It is the firm belief of this company that the value of these lots will double within the next 12 months. This firm maintains a branch office at the corner of Grand View and Cumberland road.

CALORIES VALUE, NOT WEIGHT NOW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2. — To show what 100 calories looks like, the bureau of home economics of the department of agriculture has prepared an illustrated chart showing in a series of 20 pictures just how a portion of food containing 100 calories looks on a plate when compared with other familiar foods commonly appearing on the American table. The chart is intended to furnish aid in the economical and correct selection of food for the family. Housewives today are learning to choose, think of and purchase their foods in terms of calories or food values, rather than by pounds or quarters, the bureau declares.

MILLER OPENS A BRANCH IN GLENDALE

Brooks E. Miller of 319 Fairview avenue, president of the Bemco Oil Syndicate No. 1, has opened a branch office at 211 East Broadway, room 8, for the sale of real estate.

The Glendale office will be under the management of Waldo M. Winger, who has lived in this city for the past four years and is well acquainted with values here.

Mr. Winger says: "It will be our earnest endeavor to help the good work of building up Glendale with our personal service."

Mr. J. Ortez, also of Glendale, is now manager of a new branch of this company at 308 Tajo building, where Mexican lands will be handled exclusively.

Grading stakes for Pioneer Boulevard are already laid. Pioneer Boulevard will shorten the distance from San Fernando Valley points to Los Angeles by four and one-half miles. This boulevard forms the eastern boundary of Unit No. 2 of Magnolia Park. Figure for yourself what this development will mean to Magnolia Park values.

Magnolia Park is bounded on the south by Magnolia Boulevard, the great connecting link between Lankershim and Burbank. Hammers and saws are singing a song of building on every side of Magnolia Park. Nowhere in all Southern California is there to be found greater activity or greater promise of big things to come than at Magnolia Park. Here is the place above all others that is bound to become the center of tremendous values.

THE WORLD IS HEADED TOWARD GLENDALE

THINGS ARE COMING OUR WAY, SAYS PETER HANSEN-GLENDALE IS SURE TO GROW

"The Past Summer Was Good," Says Peter, "But Keep Your Weather Eye Out for Future"; Coming Winter Will Be a Hummer

EAST, MIDWEST, MOVING TOWARD PACIFIC

Manufacturers, Too, "Gravitating" to California—Some Instances of Big Profits Given—Pete Says: "You Can't Keep Glendale Back"

It looks like a big year this year.

All arrows of prospect point to the biggest fall and winter that Glendale has ever known. The "big year" feeling is all over town. Everybody is whistling it—and this is a thing that makes for good times.

An interview with Peter Hanson of 122 West Broadway brings to light a few facts that should be of interest to the average Glendalian.

"The past summer was the biggest mid-year season Glendale has ever known," says Mr. Hanson. "Some people complained of things being a little slow, but none of that came creeping around our door. The call for homes already built predominated and during the summer hundreds of local homes changed hands.

"But just look out for this fall and winter. It is going to leave the past summer so far in the shade that you will not be able to see it. In fact if I am not mistaken, this winter will go away in the lead of last winter in the way of building activity and real estate sales.

"There are several reasons for this. In the first place farm crops all over the east and middle west have been extremely satisfactory this year. The farmers have been rewarded for their efforts by good crops, and on top of this the prices have been better than they have for years.

"With the middlewest and eastern farmer prosperous and satisfied, the future of Southern California is assured.

"The whole country is looking toward Southern California, and over all the land there are folks who are planning, right now, to come here, others are determined to arrange their financial and business affairs so that they may travel west soon, while others are simply looking longingly this way. It must be remembered that those who are merely looking this way today are the ones who actually are moving this way tomorrow. Every person who lives outside of California is a prospective new comer to Glendale.

"Things cannot let up in Glendale. So long as the tourist continues to come in just so long will business be good here. It is the new blood and the new money coming in that makes business good. Just now they are arriving in a steady stream—and they are going to continue to pour in. I don't believe Southern California will know there is an election year, so far as business conditions are concerned. And every man, it has been estimated, who comes to Glendale brings with him a potential value of $10,000.

"The second reason that Glendale is sure to continue to know good times is that the eastern manufacturers are headed to Southern California. And there's a reason.

"I know of one eastern manufacturer who lays aside every year $10,000 to take care of the cost of frozen water pipes. There are thousands who are doing the same thing. If these fellows were operating in Southern California this amount could be placed at the "profit" side of the ledger. There are a hundred things in connection with the manufacturing business that can be eliminated by moving the plant to California, where employees work the whole year through and are not interrupted by ice and snow. Here we have cheaper gas and electricity and everything in the way of fuel that is used by the manufacturer. I understand that during the past year 525 new industries were added to the Los Angeles list, and a number were added to Glendale's industrial center. I tell you Glendale has just started to grow.

"Glendale business property is better and safer than ever. It takes a little more money to swing the deals, but at the same time a bigger profit is being realized. There is hardly a piece of business property in Glendale that has not doubled in value during the past year. I believe we can reasonably expect a similar advance during the year that is ahead of us.

"I know of one deal made recently that is of unusual interest. A man paid $100 deposit on a piece of business property, the price of which was $2800. Two weeks later, before he was called upon to put down the rest of the initial payment of $1600, he sold the piece at a profit of $1500.

"Here's another: A friend of mine bought a piece of property on Colorado street six months ago for $2500. A few days ago he resold it for $7500. This loks like easy money, to me.

"These instances are not unusual. They are being repeated every day. Almost every real estate dealer in Glendale can tell you of similar profits being made. The fellows who have faith in Glendale and are willing to take a chance, are the ones who are 'cleaning up.'"

OTTAWA, Ontario.—A serious shortage of woods labor, which is said by lumbermen to be the worst in many years, exists in the Ottawa valley, here it is estimated that between 8,000 and 10,000 more men are required fully to man the camps of the lumbering and pulpwood companies. Only about one-third of the number of lumberjacks required have been engaged, and in some instances there have not been enough men to build the camps.

A man has no more use for a crying baby than a woman has for a crying man.

THIS PLAN WOULD RELIEVE RENT PROBLEM

The urge to own a home is one of the best and strongest feelings that comes to a man who realizes his responsibilities to those dependent on him. It is at once an indication of real solidity of moral make-up and of good citizenship.

No man whose ambition is centered on the welfare of his dependents can be a bad man, for the very source of his consideration for them springs from one of the highest of manly virtues—the realization of the duty and privilege of the strong to protect the weak.

It is unfortunate that, as the world goes, it is not always an easy matter for men to give effective expression to worthy desires.

The "own my own home" desire does not come merely to men in comfortable circumstances, who are able to carry into effect their wishes with comparative ease. It comes as strongly to those whose daily life is a struggle; whose fight for a footing must be waged relentlessly day in and day out so that he and his may not fall by the wayside.

It is a primitive longing that comes to good men in every walk in life—in every circumstance of wealth, comfort, struggle and even poverty.

Fortunate Americans who live in Southern California undoubtedly feel this home-owning urge most strongly. Surrounded by every manifestation of the glories of nature in her most splendid mood, the eye delighted by beautiful scenery and the physical well-being cared for by a generous soil that gives bountifully of the necessities of life through the products of the garden, orchard and farm, the appeal to home ownership is general and overpowering.

Investigations show that there are thousands of lot owners in Glendale alone owning their little piece of property free and clear, yet who were unable to take another step toward home owning because of the lack of capital or the avenues through which it might be obtained.

If a way could be shown them out of their difficulties an impetus would be given to home building in Glendale that would go far toward overcoming the shortage of residential dwellings. The lot of a number of worthy men and women would be lighter and their lives made brighter.

The plan is a very simple one. Its sole requirements are that the proposed home builder must be a responsible person, a good "moral" risk, in permanent employment or having an established business or professional standing, and that he or she must be in a position to return the amount borrowed by making stipulated monthly payments, which include the principal, interest and the cost of service rendered.

The borrower is required to have only 30 per cent of the total cost of the house and land and companies will advance the remaining 70 per cent through a series of monthly payments extending over ten years.

If desired, payments may be paid off faster, future payments being discounted at 7 per cent per year on all payments made in advance.

The service rendered, beyond making the loan, includes the assumption of practically every detail connected with a home building operation.

Plans are suggested, or even prepared, for the proposed house, specifications drawn up, bids asked for and checked with estimates, contracts are made, contractor's bond arranged for, liability and fire insurance cared for and a strict supervision is exercised over construction.

The builder is relieved of all financial troubles, since cash is made available for materials, and his bill is fully paid immediately the house is finished and accepted.

The "pay like rent" slogan must not be merely a catchpenny phrase without real meaning. Back of it must be the substance that will give effect to the "own my home" dream.

LOTS SELLING FAST IN WOODBURY HEIGHTS

"We have a number of attractive close-in hillside building sites on the Woodbury Heights frontage of Verdugo road that have groups of oak trees on them," said T. W. Watson, 708 East Broadway, this morning. "These lots are immediately available for building purposes inasmuch as the street improvements are all in. All of these lots have 60-foot frontage and stand well up on the hillside."

T. W. Watson also has a number of very attractive building sites in Glendale Highlands, four fronting on Mountain street, ranging from 65 to 73 feet in width and being 180 feet in depth. Also four lots are left on Maryland avenue, north of Mountain street, ranging from 60 to 70 feet wide and being 140 feet deep. These are sightly lots and within one block of Brand boulevard.

TO SAVE THE WORLD

General Haller, famous fighting man of Poland, said at Omaha recently that the Boy Scout movement would save Europe. It is not impossible that in that remark he made a true prophesy.

The prediction seems to imply that the task of salvation is beyond the power of the generation now in charge of nations. Perhaps they are to dawdle, and fuss, and fight, until a generation now in training shall be able to take hold. Governments, speaking generally, have not achieved marked success. Officials directly responsible, and the citizenry in turn responsible for the officials, have not proved themselves qualified for the great task.

Boy Scouts the world over are being trained to accept high principle as a rule of conduct. They are taught to be useful, and the spirit of altruism is emphasized in all their discipline, whether this pertain to work or play. The education they are receiving is unlike any that their fathers and grandfathers ever had. It seems to be taking hold upon the young minds, and shaping the activities of the young bodies. It affords a wholly new outlook on life. It places great stress on honor, courage, kindness and all the civic virtues.

Given a world in which the Boy Scouts have become men, carrying into their mature conduct the ethics governing them as members of the organization, and it necessarily would be a different and a far better world. Perhaps the primary object of the founding of the Boy Scouts was to improve the boys as boys, but the experience they are undergoing means as truly the improvement of men.

OFFICIAL RECKLESSNESS

Two recent instances come to mind wherein ambulances rushing towards the hospital with a person suffering minor injuries have caused fatalities by running over pedestrians or becoming involved in collision. The driver of ordinary discretion feels an impulse to get out of the way upon hearing the gong of an approaching ambulance, but if the latter is driven recklessly, as often it is, the opportunity to dodge it may be denied. The impact of an ambulance is no easier to endure because it may have been due to hurrying on an errand of mercy.

This week a police wagon and a fire truck, responding to the same alarm in Los Angeles crashed together at a crowded corner, injuring more than a score of persons, some of them perhaps fatally. Probably there will be an investigation, followed by the announcement that nobody was to blame. Somebody was to blame, however. Even the excitement occasioned by a fire-alarm ought to be insufficient to upset the wits of drivers accustomed to moving fast. Every driver is aware that he will not be the only one to respond. Let him have an eye out for the others.

Private individuals also are prone to be overcome by a wave of foolishness upon learning that there is a fire within reaching distance. They have no personal concern with the fire. They do not hurtle their machines in its direction with the thought of giving aid. The one thing they might do to help, they decline to do, this being to stay away from a place where they have no business, and where their presence hampers the work of firemen, and is a menace to themselves and to others.

ENGLISH PROHIBITIONISTS

England has been making a rigorous campaign against drunken motorists. The result is seen in an organization of 200,000 advocating prohibition, not as a moral issue but as a matter of safety. The driver in England now does not dare take a drink, for should he become involved in an accident thereafter, the smell of liquor on his breath would result in fine and perhaps imprisonment. Nothing he might say could offset the evidence of indiscretion.

These people do not term themselves prohibitionists, but they are taking practical methods of promoting sobriety. A similar organization in this country would be a fine thing, and for its effective operation every user of the highway would be grateful, excepting of course, the transgressors. If they were to be corrected, the state of their minds could be regarded as of minor importance.

It is a notorious fact that persons do drive while drunk. Many a disaster is due to this habit. There is a law making the act a felony. Nobody seems to pay any attention to it. Even the courts decline to apply it. Apparently the intoxicated driver who experiences an accident is not held any more culpable than if he had never taken a drink.

As the reform is in progress in England, and has not yet been started here, it might be well for Americans to imitate the methods of the British. The present difference, so wide as to be noted at a glance, is that in England the statutes are enforced, while here it is not infrequent for their existence to be waived.

INEXCUSABLE EDUCATIONAL FLAWS

Recently a questionnaire was placed before the freshman of the University of Maine. There were 350 in the class. A newspaper writer calls attention to the fact that of this number sixty-five thought that the late Henry James, novelist, had been a professional bandit. This reply was one sample among many indicating an ignorance equally blank. It is not to be assumed that the stupidity of Maine students is particularly different from the average. The conditions show a deplorable lack in elementary education.

It is not to be argued that youth of today ought to know of Jesse James, the bandit, who was killed so many years ago that his exploits are dim memories even to the elderly. But they should know of any such master of English as Henry James. A decent familiarity with literature, such as any intelligent student must possess, would involve such knowledge. James died after the beginning of the world war. Born an American, he had lived much in England, but became a citizen of that country only when disgusted with the slowness with which his native land entered the struggle.

A prominent manufacturer when on the stand as a witness was asked if he knew who Benedict Arnold was. He replied in the negative, but ventured the guess that Benedict Arnold had been a writer of some kind. Probably he had confused the name with that of Arnold Bennett. When reminded that Arnold was a historical character he remarked that history was "bunk." Perhaps as to certain phases of history his comment might have been true, but in the sense that he intended it, it was crass ignorance.

No man so ignorant, be he student or manufacturer, can command the respect of his fellows. It is impossible for him to have the proper perspective. The relation of events to each other can have no meaning to the person unaware of the events themselves. Perhaps the manufacturer had been denied the privilege of schooling. The freshman at a university is without similar excuse. When he enters college an ignoramus, the chances of his emerging with the honors of scholarship are small. There is a flaw in the preliminary training of such a student. How he could be able to read, and fail utterly to learn from reading, is a mystery.

This is not an idea based on the fact that he confounds the identities of a writer and a robber. That item by itself is a mere straw indicating the way the wind blows in the educational field.

It is quite possible that the falling off in the income tax total fails to indicate a corresponding falling off of incomes. It is quite common now to disguise income by investing in non-taxable securties.

FRUITS OF RACE HATRED

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Last week a case was brought into court, the wife charging the husband with failure to provide.

The testimony revealed an astonishing condition, a wife driving her husband to desperation because she found after marriage that he had in his veins a strain of Latin blood.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

Intrinsically, biologically, historically, in everything that counted, his blood was as good as hers; but she had in some way conceived an unthinking antipathy for the Latins and no service, no love, no intellect, no achievement could still her unreasonable persecution of the man who had the misfortune to marry her.

She insulted, reviled and even struck him, until, being unable to longer endure her treatment he went elsewhere to live, having no intention of abandoning her without support or of failure to provide for his child.

The woman had no case in court and the persecuted man went free.

A few days before this incident I heard a woman stand up in a public meeting and declare that during the recent earthquake and fire in Japan that the Japanese refused aid to the foreigners. Her statement was challenged, but she stoutly held to her position, all proof to the contrary, notwithstanding.

She seemed not to have read the dispatches or she would have known that the traditional courtesy of Japan held through all the awfulness of the tragedy. The foreigners as the guests of the nation were first considered. Even the cables were cleared first for the messages of aliens in Japan that they might notify their loved ones of their safety before the Japanese in foreign lands knew of the safety of their own families.

With written statements of earthquake sufferers in my hand I stood up in the crowd to set the speaker right; but to my astonishment my proven facts were received coldly and one woman said when I sat down:

"All that is very well, but the Japanese do cheat."

Feature that. Just as if there were a nation on the ground globe that has not its quota of dishonest citizens. Moreover what has that to do with a simple statement of fact in regard to the earthquake and the subsequent treatment of foreigners within the borders of Japan? The trouble was that the woman was thinking solely and only in terms of race hatred. She wished to hear nothing good of Japanese as some people wish to hear nothing good of Arbas, Hindoos, Russian, Poles, Greeks or English, whatever nation their hatred may have decided to feed upon.

Every hatred is a blinding thing, an illogical thing, a blighting and searing thing. Race hatred is only a form of iniquity; I am but pointing to its results on those who harbor it.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

I'm all confused this morning. After one has thoroughly made up his mind it is upsetting to have it unmade. Especially when one suspects the original making was about as well done as the work of a hotel chambermaid—a lick and a promise.

"My mother-in-law is visiting us," said Cade Caldwell one day, with a queer smile. "I want you and Polly to come over and get acquainted."

Somehow Cade's voice sounded as though she did not like her mother-in-law. By and by—through the course of weeks—details began to leak out. The mother-in-law was this and that. I was completely prejudiced against the woman before I met her. So was Polly Pilgrim.

"We owe it to Cade to go over," said my sweet but often unreasonable wife, "if only to let the old lady know Cade's friends are standing by her in the gloom of this hour."

So we went—hostile as two Comanche chiefs—ready to make war medicine—and came back upset in our convictions. The mother-in-law seemed a sweet old lady to both of us, rankly set against her as we were at first. She knows more about books and men and women and the world than Cade ever will know. She can argue in perfect good nature. Cade turns purple under the stress.

"What's more," said Polly Pilgrim, "Cade Caldwell has been bullying that poor old woman. I can see it in her eyes."

So there you are. We've gone over to the mother-in-law. Now we're worrying for fear she'll hear some of the mean things we said about her. Next time, I think, we'll wait to make sure. We will not let some one else—perhaps biased—furnish what we call our minds with a lot of ideas that are not so.

THE LISTENING POST

On the desk of the editor of the Listening Post is a bit of red granite.

Dug out from its bed in the eternal hills.

We say eternal hills, but the hills as hills were probably not eternal.

JAMES W. FOLEY

They are temporal things, hills are.

Tossed up sometime from the core of the earth in a vast convulsion.

And now gradually cut and eroded and wasted until sometime they may waste altogether away.

Who knows?

It may have taken millions of years to lift a mountain to its towering height.

It may take millions of years to waste it away.

But what are millions of years compared with eternity?

A million of years compared with eternity is not as considerable as a grain of sand beside the earth.

Because eternity is limitless.

And we cannot compare a limited thing like a million years of time with a limitless thing like eternity.

But we can compare a grain of the sand with the earth.

Because both have measurable dimensions and bulk and size.

* * *

But to get back to the red granite.

The bit of it on this desk is enough for a paper weight.

It has a fine grain like that of marble.

And it is hard as flint.

* * *

The tempered steel will turn against it.

It resists any effort to scratch it.

Its fibre is rugged and stout and apparently not to be cut or scratched or wasted away.

A part of the very rib of the earth.

Yet a long time ago water trickled over the bed in which it was laid.

Water that is yielding and soft and velvet like in its touch.

Water that surely can not scratch or cut or grind granite.

* * *

And that water flowed on for millions of years perhaps.

No man knows how long.

Geologists may hazard a guess.

They may approximate.

But their approximation may be distant millions of years from exactness.

But a million years are not important in a geological hazard.

Still the water flowed on.

Over the bed of granite.

Perhaps after a million years the bed of granite was cut into for a quarter of an inch.

By the constant flow of the water.

* * *

Today the water has cut down into the bed of granite for a depth of half a mile.

Steadily and resistlessly it has poured its length over the granite bed.

Steadily and resistlessly it has cut its way down.

* * *

Until at last its persistence has cut down half a mile.

Not through sand or shale or any soft stuff.

But through granite like flint.

The constant flowing of the gentle drop of water has eaten away the resistance of the solid granite wall.

Just as the persistence of your gentlest effort will cut through opposition.

Dissipate obstacles.

And dissolve whatever flint-like thing in its path.

Songs of the Poets

The Lonely Road—By Kenneth Rand

I think thou waitest, Love, beyond the gate—
Eager, with wind-stirred ripples in thy hair;
I have not found thee, and the hour is late,
And harsh the weight I bear.

Far have I sought, and flung my wealth of years
Like a young traveler, gay at careless inns—
See how the wine-stain whitens 'neath the tears
My burden wins!

And wilt thou know me, Love, with bended back,
Or wilt thou scorn me, in so drear a guise?
I have a wealth of sorrows in my pack,
One lonely prize—

Thy dream—and dross of sin. O dim the fields—
I may not find thee in so dark a land—
Yet I await with hope the turning yields
And beg with empty hand.

Free Movements and Free Opinions the Essentials of Democracy

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE other day a politician from the South called on President Coolidge to see if something could not be done to stop the exodus of negroes from his part of the country. He was alarmed over the labor shortage, and, doubtless, also over the shortage of votes.

One of the most remarkable of recent phenomena in American life is the growth of the Ku Klux Klan, an organization which aims to make things hot for certain classes of people who hold opinions that are objectionable to those held by the members of the organization.

Here we have two indications of that point of view which regards social stability as founded on restraint of movement and conformity of opinion.

The delusion is an old one that if people would only stand still there would be no trouble makers. Most of the inhabitants of any old community look with suspicion upon any member of it who has travelled much. Going into strange countries must have unsettled his morals.

Every country does what it can to harass travellers, what with passports, and customs, and other obstacles. It seems to be assumed that the best citizens are those who stay home.

In like manner there is a considerable portion of the population who look askance upon free thought or independence of opinion. Is it not from this sort of thing that heresies, revolutions and trouble in general spring?

But the truth is that the stability of a democracy is exactly in proportion to its freedom of movement and freedom of opinion. Democracy must be ever changing, because it is a living thing.

Democracy is essentially fluid. It is constantly in process of evolution. Its life and strength depends upon its normal and continuous growth.

Only an autocracy can stand still.

Whenever you find a movement that insists on everybody staying where he is, and upon everybody thinking the same thing, you find some sort of tyranny behind it.

Democracy is like a bicycle; whenever it stops it falls over.

John Bright, said, in 1863: "I see from the East unto the West, from the rising of the sun to the going down thereof, in spite of what misled, prejudiced, unjust and wicked men may do, the cause of freedom still moving onward; and it is not in human power to arrest its progress."

(Copyright, 1923, by Dr. Frank Crane)

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

NEW DEPARTURE BY LABOR

[The Continent]

A link between church and labor of an altogether unexampled character has been established in Pennsylvania, where Rev. Richard W. Hogue, an Episcopalian clergyman, has been appointed by the State Federation of Labor to be director of the federation's department of education. This department itself is something new—unknown elsewhere in the realm of organized labor. Its object is to encourage workingmen to read more widely and more systematically—especially on oconomic topics. It will also undertake to inspire workingmen's sons and daughters to persevere in their schooling to the highest grades that a lively ambition for education will enable them to reach. All this should be a congenial task for a man with a pastor's heart, and no doubt Hr. Hogue will win the hearts of those whom he thus serves. In him may they also learn to appreciate better the Christianity from which his inspiration to service derives.

It is worth more than passing notice that the creation of this department and the choice of a minister to direct it are the specific acts of James H. Maurer of Reading, the Pennsylvania Labor Federation's president for many years, and by virtue of his long leadership almost omnipotent over it. It is out of memories from his own deprived early years that this present educational scheme of his has grown. And it is to be trusted that his present turning to the church for counsel in this matter signifies that he now judges progressive Christianity to be a better guide for workingmen than atheistic communism.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

HENRY JAMES

While Europe seems to intend to make another effort to untangle the reparations muss, it is going into the matter sadly handicapped.

In fact, if France holds to the policy of collecting in full, there doesn't seem to be any utility in talking things over. There could be nothing to say aside from chiding the French, and they wouldn't care, having become accustomed to it.

There is no satisfaction in remarking what Europe is to do tomorrow, when tomorrow's sun is likely to dawn on an entirely new set of intentions all around. Some time all the present problems will be solved. The world has been in the deeps before now, and has managed to crawl out. At intervals during the process there has seemed certainty of failure.

Even in this country in revolutionary days, matters were giving the natives about as rough-going as anybody has experienced since. Yet subsequent to Valley Forge hardships, and soldiers shoeless, and money about as useless as the German mark of 1923, quite a country has been built up.

Reverting to Europe: At this writing the chair of Stresemann wobbles. A throne always totters, but a chair can do nothing more pretentious than wobble. Perhaps by the time these lines appear Stresemann will be out of power; perhaps he will have more power than ever. You never can tell; you nor anybody else.

A hotel manicurist reports that while enjoying a "party" she was feloniously deprived of three diamond rings valued by her at $3000. The party, as revealed by additional statements of the manicurist, consisted of herself and a male escort in whose integrity her faith seems to have been shattered.

From the episode it is possible to derive some knowledge. The profession of manicuring must be more lucrative than generally supposed. Also, in participating in a nocturnal whirl about town, it is well to remember there is safety in numbers. Furthermore, not every male who seems to be a gentleman, is.

When a libel suit is brought it is the general custom not to say much about it, but merely to give the news briefly. However, when Douglas Fairbanks and his wife are the plaintiffs, the impulse arises to counsel them to "go to it" and to wish them well.

There are plenty of matrimonial rows in the movie colony to engage all the gossips, and even to make their tongues wag overtime. This banishes all excuse for lying about the couples who behave themselves. Surprising as the truth may seem, there are many such couples in the colony.

Reports come from Chicago and the middle west generally, that cold weather has arrived. This is an annual phenomenon. The cold comes marching in every autumn, to be hailed each time as something that never happened before.

There are millions of people who live in Chicago, and who must like it, or they wouldn't stay. They have heat and cold in due season, but really don't ask anybody's sympathy.

A Chicago woman thinks she is too beautiful to be married, and so seeks her second divorce.

No woman is too beautiful to be married. Here and there is one so conceited an idiot, that no man would marry her until she had hypnotized him, and then the spell wouldn't last long.

More roads are planned between the harbor at San Pedro and the metropolitan district of Los Angeles. They will have to be constructed in a hurry to keep up with the demands of traffic.

There ought to be a dozen good highways to the harbor, particularly as trucking is so constant and heavy that no one road could stand up under it long. Besides, lighter vehicles should have a chance.

Suspicion of the presence of poison in a gift of whisky caused the stuff to be tried on a guinea pig. Thereupon the innocent little creature died before it had a chance to squeal.

Consideration for helpless animals suggests some gentler plan for ascertaining the truth. If the stuff were to be tried on the donor, no harm could result.

A Santa Barbara jury has convicted two young women of robbery; not gallant at all. The girls are said to be pretty at that. The world must be getting better or worse, or more sensible or something.

The rule of juries in general has been to take a squint at any comely defendant, and turn her loose quite regardless of such trifle as her guilt or innocence.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

A CHILD'S EDUCATION

Educating a child is not a one-person job. It is not, as so many people seem to think, a job that any grown-up can start and complete according to his plan without consulting at all the child who is to be educated.

It is not possible to take a child and by educating him as his instructor wills, make another child of him. That is possible only if the child wished to be educated that way and if he has the possibilities that can be educated that way. The teacher must educate the child presented to him and not one of his creative imagination.

The child comes to us with certain instincts and tendencies that make for him a definite equipment. It is possible, with his consent, to modify that equipment so as to increase its power and decrease its handicaps. It is not possible to give him anything that he has not in the beginning.

But and here lies all the glory and magic of the power of the teacher; it is possible to put that child in an attitude of mind that it will be possible for him to add and subtract to and from himself all that he will.

He can be led to shed all that is mean and unlovely, and to put on all that is fine and beautiful about himself, until he is clothed as with a new raiment.

This is real work for the real teacher. No policeman can capture or command a mind, no material force can control one. Spirit speaks to spirit, mind to mind. This the teacher knows.

How get at this mind? Minds are shy and aloof, and retreat to the inner fastness. Shall we make a mistake and try to force them out to meet us? That is the great mistake.

When the mind of a child recoils and the child sits dumbly before us, we insist upon forcing our teaching. His body moves in obedience to our command. He makes obeisance and we say, "He learns."

We found him uninterested as we talked of numbers and signs and quantities so we gave him many examples to work out and laboriously corrected his errors. We examined him and he passed. "He learns," we said.

Truly he learns. But what? To hide himself from us. To pursue in secret and in peace the thoughts he likes best to think and we have not the slightest notion of what they are or toward what they move.

If he is going wrong we do not know it and are powerless to help him. If he is going right, if he is soaring where we fluttered if he is marching ahead where we loitered, if he is spiritually rich where we are impoverished, we do not know it.

Only the teacher who understands the shy mind of a child can ever hope to help one grow, which is but another way of serving that only he who is educated truly can educate at all.

THIS DREAM HOME IS A REGULAR PICTURE; H. H. GARMONG COMPLETES SPANISH STUCCO

"A dream home" is a fitting expression to use in connection with the Spanish stucco, recently completed by and now occupied by H. H. Garmong, at 1443 Montgomery. Mr. Garmong is manager of the office of Dutton, the Home Fynder, at the corner of Glendale and Colorado.

This beautiful foothill home with wonderful views of hills and valley, has cream stucco exterior with red Spanish tile roof. The trim is of green.

The home has five large rooms, bath, nook, and screen porch. Before it is a spacious red tile porch.

The living room is 18x20 feet. The walls are beautified with hand oil work in Tiffany blend on back stock. There is plaster cornice, gray ceiling, and a wonderful figured fireplace with inlaid gum mantel. The Polychrome wrought iron fixtures are in keeping with the other features. Across the front is a large plate glass window. The drapes are in mulberry overlay on tan silk gauze.

An arch separates the living from the dining room, which is 13x15 feet in size. The decorations in this room are identical to those in the living apartment.

At the rear of the dining room is the beautiful cabinet kitchen. This is 9.6x13 feet. It is finished in blue-white enamel. There is built-in ironing board, cupboards, tile sink and drainboard, removable fume chute, etc. Light blue and white inlaid linoleum is the floor covering. The nook, off the kitchen to the north, is a dream. It is 6x7 feet and is finished in oil stippling of a blue tint, over which is a hand-painted grapevine design. The window at the end of this feature overlooks the hills to the north—a wonderful view.

The screen porch is 7x8 feet. It has two trays, ice box drip, Rudd heater, etc.

The front bedroom is 13.6x15 feet. It has Spanish oval windows, tan oil-hand-stippled walls and ceiling of grey and gold. It has indirect lighting, spacious closet, mulberry and tan silk gauze draperies.

From the front bedroom a hall, 13.6x15 leads back to the bathroom, which is a model. It is 8.6x9.6 feet, and has Penbrook bath, china pedestal lavatory, inlaid linoleum floor covering, medicine closet with mirror, etc.

The rear bedroom is 13x13.6 and also has hand oil-stippled walls, over which is a wild rose design. The ceiling is cream.

The floors throughout this house are all 1-2 inch light oak, the hardware is all solid brass. The pictures have been hand-painted to match the surroundings. Throughout, the home is a picture.

At the rear of the home is a 2-machine garage, lawns front and rear, two-strip drive, various flowers, sprinkling system—everything that goes to make a home. The rear yard is fenced.

NEW CHAPTER OF PI KAPPA DELTA ORGANIZED HERE

Two Glendalians Are Charter Members of This New Order

Instituting the California Epsilon Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta for the University of California Southern Branch, thirty members of the fraternity gathered last night at the Egyptian Village Cafe in Glendale. Ten members, including two Glendalians, Francis Read and Paul Hutchinson, were initiated.

A banquet followed the formal initiation. The principal speakers were the three men who have held the national presidency, Dr. Nicols, Dr. MacArthur, and Professor Marsh, the present president. The told something of the history of Pi Kappa Delta, and the ideals for which it stands. President Marsh presided at the initiation, assisted by the two ex-presidents. Franklin H. Minck, president of the new chapter, was the toastmaster; Dr. Ernest Moore, director of the university, welcomed the new fraternity to the campus.

Pi Kappa Delta is the youngest of the forensic fraternities. It was founded in the middle west ten years ago. The newly installed chapter is the eighty-ninth local chapter of the order. The membership is well over three thousand.

California Epsilon chapter was formerly an independent order known as the Golden Gavel Honor society, and was accepted as a chapter of Pi Kappa Delta recently. Only varsity debaters and orators are eligible for membership.

Dale T. Wood, a graduate of Glendale High school and a member of California Alpha chapter at Redlands, was present at the initiation.

DE MOLAYS OF GLENDALE WILL LAUNCH LODGE

Van Nuys chapter, Order of De Molay, will be instituted this evening in the Masonic Temple of that city by the Glendale chapter. The local De Molays will go over in a big caravan, and after a street parade and a banquet will institute the new chapter, initiating forty Van Nuys boys into the order. Eight candidates elected by Glendale chapter will receive their degrees at the same time.

Valentine Hollingsworth, master councilor, will be in charge of the affair. Jesse M. Whited, grand marshal of the order, will be present and deliver an address after the degree work has been completed. A large delegation from Hollywood chapter, which instituted the Glendale chapter on July 20, 1922, is expected to be present. Local De Molays and Masons will turn out in full force for the event, the first of its kind for the Glendale chapter.

Three Days' Conference at Gospel Tabernacle

Rev. Paul Rader of Chicago is one of a party of widely known Bible teachers and preachers who will begin a three days' conference in Glendale in the Gospel Tabernacle church Sunday, November 4. Other speakers will be Dr. J. Gregory Mantle of London, England, and Dr. Walter Turnbull of Toronto, Canada.

Paul Rader is well known as

former pastor of Moody Tabernacle, Chicago, and now President of the Christian and Missionary Alliance. Just now hundreds of people are being turned away from his meetings in Los Angeles. He is probably preaching to more thousands than any other man in the United States. The personality of the man, his splendid speaking voice, and his varied experiences as cowboy, prizefighter, traveler, author, lecturer wins for him a great hearing wherever he appears.

Mr. Rader will speak Monday and Tuesday afternoon and evening. Sunday at 11 o'clock Dr. Mantle will speak on "Good or Good-for-Nothing." In the evening Dr. Turnbull will be the speaker. His subject will be "Downtrodden Palestine and the Challenge of Mohammedanism."

The tabernacle is located at Louise and Chestnut.

FIRST DANCING PARTY OF S. O. CLUB TONIGHT

First of the winter series of dancing parties to be given by the Standard Oil Employees' Athletic club of Glendale will take place tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Glendale Press hall at 333 North Brand boulevard. The dance will be open to the public and will be for the purpose of securing funds to purchase athletic suits for the club. The club membership comprises the men in charge of the service stations and other employees of the company in Glendale. Music will be furnished by the California Oriole orchestra. The committee in charge of arrangements includes L. W. Tharpe, chairman; J. C. Smith, L. E. Ketchum, H. K. Eggley, J. W. Stone and L. W. Fisher.

TUESDAY CLUB'S LUNCHEON OPEN TO ALL MEMBERS

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, announces that the regular luncheon of the club on Tuesday, November 6, will be open to club members and also their guests, whether members of the club or not. Reservations will be open until noon on Saturday and may be made with Mrs. A. A. Barton. Rex Goodcell, collector of internal revenue, Dean Irene Myers of Occidental College and Mrs. O. W. March will be the luncheon speakers. An interesting musical program, "A Song of Life," will be given by Maude Fenlon Bollman, soprano, at 3 o'clock.

SHAKESPEARE SECTION TO OBSERVE FOLIO DAY

"Folio" day will be celebrated by the Shakespeare section of the Tuesday Afternoon club at its regular meeting on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when a special talk on the subject will be given by Mrs. Macy Garrett. Little Christine Edwards will give a violin solo. The hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. Eugene Brown and Mrs. R. K. Snow. Mrs. Walter Jones, curator, will preside at a short business session. The section's membership list is still open.

MONTROSE C. OF C. WILL HOLD NEXT MEETING NOV. 6

Members of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce will hold their next meeting on Tuesday night, November 6, at 8 o'clock in the new Montrose school house. A musical program has been arranged and will follow the business session. There will also be community singing directed by Marion Tracy Whiting of Los Angeles. Refreshments will be served. Everyone is invited to be present.

MRS. CRIBBS ENTERTAINS LOCAL RELIEF COMMITTEE

Mrs. G. C. Cribbs of 327 Patterson avenue entertained the members of the local relief committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club at her home on Friday. The afternoon was spent in tying comforters. At the close of the afternoon a delicious lunch was served.

WIDELY KNOWN RESTAURATEUR AT CROWN CAFE

The opening tonight of the new Crown cafe at 136½ North Brand boulevard brings to Glendale a first class restaurant under the management of its owner, George Gotsis, a cafe man of long experience announces that he is here to please the public and will set out absolutely the best the market affords, prepared by the best of chefs, and served in a quick and satisfying manner, at pleasing prices.

The old Crown cafe has been entirely remodelled, new fixtures having been installed and the place redecorated.

Mr. Gotsis is owner of the chain of Goodfellow Grotto restaurants in Tuscon, the latest of which was opened two weeks ago. These were considered the most beautiful and satisfying restaurants in the state of Arizona, if not in the entire southwest.

The formal opening will be held today, Saturday, at 5 p. m., when a chicken dinner will be served from that hour until nine o'clock.

Mr. Gotsis is greatly pleased with the outlook, and will be glad to have the public attend the opening. He will maintain an a la carte service, and will specialize on steaks, fish and chops. Quick counter service will be a feature, while pleasing table service for those who care to dine at their leisure will be furnished.

THIS IS HARRY JAMES' EXTREMELY BUSY DAY

SPORT -O- GRAMS

By FRANCIS W. READ

Do we Americans place too much emphasis upon the winning of games? When we go into a contest should our primary aim be to win the contest, or rather to develop those who participate? Many think that too much emphasis is placed upon winning and too little upon the real purpose of the contests. It is strange for the Englishman to understand how we Americans always have to win to get the proper kind of a "kick" out of a game. They seem to enjoy winning and losing equally and we do not care to win all the time.

It is true that the main purpose of any competition is the development of those who participate. This is true in all athletics. But due to the establishment of athletics upon an intercollegiate and interscholastic basis, this is often forgotten. It is not the victory or defeat that counts—it is the spirit in which the game is played.

If the results of today's game at Berkeley indicate that Andy Smith's Golden Bears were not able to score more than fourteen points or so on the Nevada Sagebrushers, wiseacres of all descriptions will come up to remark upon the decline of the California football team. They will tell the world at large that California is not the same as it used to be, and that the Bears are doomed to defeat at the hands of the Trojans.

As for us, we do not agree that if the Blue and Gold fails to run up a big score against Nevada it will mean that the Bears are deteriorating and will fall to the Trojans. There is such a thing as a coach keeping his stuff under cover. Elmer Henderson, the famous Gloomy Gus, has always done that at the first of the season and did it this year. Now the Bruin coach is keeping his team under cover for the three big games in the next three weeks. Next Saturday the Bears meet the U. S. C. Trojans, and on the following two Saturdays they take on the Washington Huskies and the Stanford Cardinals. Andy Smith is saving his team for these games and furthermore he is taking no chances on scouts from U. S. C., Washington or Stanford getting a line on his stuff. He has opened up sufficiently this season to show that he has it, now he is keeping it under cover until he needs it in the harded games.

PULLMAN, Wash., Nov. 3—With the exception of Fullback Slater, who is in the hospital with an infected knee, the Cougar football team was reported in excellent condition last night for its game on Rogers' field today with the University of Oregon. The Oregon players were declared to be in tiptop shape. Bray may start the game at fullback for Washington State, it was reported last night.

CITRUS DEFEATS SOUTH PASADENA GRIDDERS, 13-0

The Citrus Union pigskinners hung it on South Pasadena yesterday afternoon, 12 to 0, at the latter's grounds. The game belonged to Citrus from beginning to end, South Pasadena being outplayed at all times. The first touchdown came off in the first quarter after five minutes of play when Fullback Ray carried the ball over. The second touchdown bobbed up in the last fifteen seconds of play when Ray again carried the ball over for a score.

The outstanding stars for Pasadena were Bauman, right end, and Cecil, who punted, the latter's work being especially fine. Those that featured for Citrus were Fullback Ray, Righthend Hawes and Righthalf Shiffler. The lineups follow:

CITRUS UNION		SO. PASADENA
Merzruf	L.E.	Kennedy
Lindley	L.T.	Jones
Green	L.G.	Caff
Pinkstaff	C.	Grenoewegan
Swanson	R.G.	Cecil
Munson	R.T.	Archibald

THREE FOOTBALL GAMES IN NORTH THIS AFTERNOON

BERKELEY, Nov. 3. — Andy Smith's Golden Bears lined up this afternoon against the Nevada Silver Fox outfit. Although there is little question as to the result of the game, interest runs high, for it is expected that Smith's men will be getting rounded out into shape for the U. S. C. struggle next week.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 3.—Stanford's Cardinals went into battle this afternoon against the Olympic club to avenge themselves for their defeat at the hands of the Trojans last Saturday. Several changes in the Card backfield were made, including the shifting of Campbell to half. The Stanford eleven was confident that it could down the big winged O eleven.

TIGERS BATTLE POETS, CALTECH PLAYS REDLANDS

Either Occidental or Whittier will be brought down from her 1000 per cent standing in Conference baseball as a result of the game on Poet field today. Since both teams stand undefeated so far, considerable interest in the game is evident and a speedy clash is sure to ensue.

If things run true to authorized dope, Whittier will receive the black crepe. Past contests have shown the Tigers to be stronger than their Quaker opponents, and they are expected to wind up on the popular end of the score.

It is not to be concluded that the Poets are weak, however, for two wins are stored safely away in their credit. Cal Tech and the Cubs were the victims of the Whittier machine.

Redlands and Sal Tech battle at Tournament park, Pasadena, in the other league mix up today. The Engineers are favored to win, Redlands having dropped her two opening games by lop-sided scores. Nevertheless, the intense rivalry between the colleges will probably offset all dope.

TROJAN FROSH ARE READY FOR BEAR YEARLINGS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—Coach Leo Calland's University of Southern California freshmen eleven goes into its big game of the season against the University of California first year men at Berkeley Nov. 10 with all men in the best of condition. Gordon Brite and Everett Best, guards, who have been on the bench with injuries, are recovering and while they may not start against the Bruin cubs they will at least get in the game.

The Trojan frosh, victors over every team which they have met this season, are rated slight favorites over their Berkeley rivals, although the Blue and Gold eleven also has a clear slate for the season. The Southerners have the best of comparative scores against high school elevens, and the contest with Stanford clearly demonstrated the power and versatility of Calland's attack. Although outplayed by a superior line, the brilliant Trojan backfield gained almost at will against the Stanford boys.

DYNAMITERS WIN FROM MONROVIA ELEVEN, 34 TO 0

Glendale Grabs Football Game From Wildcat Gridders

By FAIRFIELD WILSON

The Glendale steamroller football team plowed through the Monrovia ranks for five touchdowns, on Moyse field yesterday. Full of confidence, ready for anything and overflowing with pep, the Dynamiter squad had little difficulty in defeating its opponents. Nevertheless the spirit of the Monrovia lads was admirable, in that they were attempting an almost impossible feat, with courage and strength.

The first quarter started with Monrovia receiving on her 35-yard line. After failing to make any headway through the stone wall which Glendale presented to them, the wildcats punted to the center of the field. Glendale returned the punt to Monrovia's 15-yard line, where they recovered the ball. A place kick was then tried which failed. When the ball had found its way to the 40-yard line, Walton ran the end for a gain of 20 yards. Howard Elliot managed to carry the ball over and converted, making the score 7-0. The next touchdown was made without any great effort. Bud Elliot did the work and H. Elliot scored the extra point.

The one score made in the second quarter, by Howard "Tony" Elliot, was about the only interesting feature in this period, although there were two sensational runs, one by the former, the other by Walton, each of which netted 30 yards. It was these runs that made the touchdown possible. When the whistle was blown for the half, the ball was in the center of the field.

The third quarter, although it sometimes appeared to be a walkover for Glendale, showed the true spirit of the opponents, who several times broke through the Dynamiters' line for large gains. West made one run for 15 yards right through the pack. After yards had been made again he planted the pigskin in back of the posts. The kick was blocked and the count stood 27-0.

The last quarter was interrupted many times on account of a string of substitutions; Coach Hayhurst wishing to give as many men as possible a chance to play. However, one more touchdown was scored, bringing the count to 34-0.

There was an exceptionally large attendance, the grandstands and bleachers being overcrowded. The cheering and music showed that the students are heartily backing this very promising team.

The line-ups follow:

IDAHO VANDALS EASILY DEFEAT GONZAGA, 13-0

MOSCOW, Idaho, Nov. 3.— Before a crowd of 900 the Idaho Vandals successfully defended their goal line and won from the Gonzaga Bulldogs here yesterday, 13 to 0.

Gonzaga made desperate efforts to gain ground through their famous aerial attack, but Idaho backs smeared attempt after attempt and turned Gonzaga passes into Idaho yardage gains.

Gonzaga completed but six out of twenty-four passing attempts. Idaho scored in the second and third quarters, Davis taking the ball over for the first counter on a line buck after Stivers had taken the ball down to within four yards of the line on a long end run. Kleffner made the second touchdown on a brilliant 30-yard dash through center.

Idaho centered her efforts on line smashes and wide end runs. She was particularly fortunate in breaking up Gonzaga passes.

CUBS MEET THE POMONA ELEVEN IN HOT BATTLE

Determined to wipe out the stain in their record caused by the defeat at the hands of Whittier last Saturday, the Southern Branch varsity stepped out today against the Pomona College Sagehens before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a football game on Moore field.

Favored to win by any way the rope is read, the Cubs had the slight edge over their opponents. However, the Sagehens are by no means weak, and were expected to let loose some hot stuff in the form of air attacks during the affair. The Sagehens' backfield is their strongest asset.

Before the game Coach Jimmy Cline of the Bruin eleven decided that he would keep Captain Walt Westcott out of today's game rather than take the risk of playing him before he had recovered from his recent injuries.

A contest between the Cub and Sagehen freshmen got under way at 1:30.

The teams lined up for the big game as follows:

S. B. U. C.		POMONA
Bishop	L.E.	Frater
Thursby	L.T.	Tarr
Molrine	L.G.	Roblee
Collins	C.	Mooney

COVINA SMASHES WAY TO VICTORY

COVINA, Nov. 3.—Covina High provided dangerous competitors for the Central League championship yesterday afternoon when they punched the heavy Alhambra line for a well earned victory of 7 to 3. Outweighed 20 pounds to the man, Covina held Alhambra to five first downs during the game, three of which were made by passes.

The game started well for Alhambra. Taking advantage of a short punt and a 15-yard run by Rhoades the latter was in position for a field goal, which he successfully made from the 35-yard line.

Covina then opened a drive which ended a few minutes later in a touchdown by Dancer. Grant converted goal. The half ended with the ball in Covina's possession on Alhambra's 4-yard line.

During the remainder of the game the light Covina team played on the defensive with Alhambra shooting frequent passes.

Covina and Glendale are now tied for the leadership in the Central League.

The line-up:

COVINA		ALHAMBRA

ATHLETIC CLUB BASEBALL TEAM MEETS RED SOX

Tomorrow afternoon the baseball team of the Glendale Athletic club will meet the Los Angeles Red Sox at Happiland park. Henry Wendt, the new manager of the Athletic team is assured that a fast game is forthcoming. The Los Angeles team is one of the fastest of the semi-pros, but the Athletics are expected to play the same ball that defeated Gardena last Sunday. Tommy Morgan and Slim Harris are both slated for the pitchers' box, with Faulkner catching.

GLENDALE BALL TEAM MEETS ANGELS

Major League Squad Plays Today at Washington Park

Not only will the folks in attendance at today's big clash between the Glendale major leaguers and the Los Angeles club at Washington Park get a peep at one of the greatest outfield combinations playing the National game, but they also will get a slant at Fred Haney, a local kid who was labeled "the $50,000 nugget" by Eastern ball critics the past season because of his sensational playing as a member of the Detroit Tigers.

Up until the time Haney was hit in the eye by a batted ball from the bat of Hollis Thurston in a game against the Chicago White Sox, he was slapping the ball at a .358 clip and pressing the great Harry Heilman for batting honors. Due to other injured players on the club, Manager Cobb kept Haney in the game, which didn't help the injured optic to any extent. However, the young phenom came through in the clinch, helping the Tigers to finish second.

In this afternoon's fracas Haney will be stationed at third base, giving the Glendale crew the benefit of an added punch, which will no doubt be discouraging news to the Angel followers. Irish Bob Meusel and Arnold Statz are all primed to give the customers the best they have, which means that this trio of fly-chasers, who are looked upon as the best ever turned out of the coast circuit, will be hustling to down the Angels.

Hollis Thurston will do the mound work, with Mickey O'Brien, Phillie catcher, doing the backstopping. Mike Donlin, the great New York Giant player of other days, will share the first base job with Babe Herman, Glendale boy, who belongs to the Boston Red Sox. Hienie Sand, another phillie performer, will play shortstop. Besides doing a lot of clowning, Carl Sawyer will cover the keystone sack. Should Thurston be off color in his role of hurler, he will have an able understudy in Lefty Thomas.

OTTAWA, Ontario.—There are more telephones in Canada per 100 population than in any other country except the United States. This is shown in a report issued by the dominion bureau of statistics, in which the proportion of telephone users per 100 of population is set at 10.53. British Columbia comes first, with 15.19 telephones per 100 population; Ontario, 13.59; Saskatchewan, 12.25; Alberta, 10.89; Manitoba, 10.78; New Brunswick, 6.96; Nova Scotia, 6.87; Quebec, 6.58; Prince Edward Island, 5.80.

TRANSFERS
Do you know Glendale Inter-Urban Express
—That we are the oldest authorized freight and express carrier between Glendale and Los Angeles.
—That we deliver at your door quicker than any other carrier.
—That we have four trucks operating daily, with an investment of $13,000.
—That we are a Glendale concern, and not a Los Angeles transfer company.
—THEREFORE, we are deserving of your patronage.
—That we are equipped to handle any kind of hauling—both local and long distance.
—That we have a 14-passenger bus—just the thing for picnic parties.

Bellehurst Hillslopes

On the outward curve of the hills

And in the very heart of the finest residence section of Glendale

Where else in all of Southern California can you find today such a PROFIT-MAKING combination as this?

For here we have the most marvelous residence lots you have ever seen ON THE OUTWARD CURVE of the Verdugo foothills, so situated that almost every lot in the tract commands a THREE-WAY VIEW of city, wide valleys and distant purple mountains.

And all around us a wonderful modern city, growing faster than any other city in the entire United States, attracting a class of people whom you will gladly accept as neighbors and friends.

Today you can buy these beautiful lots from us at OPENING PRICES—

$1500 to $3000

With a few special bargains below the thousand-dollar mark.

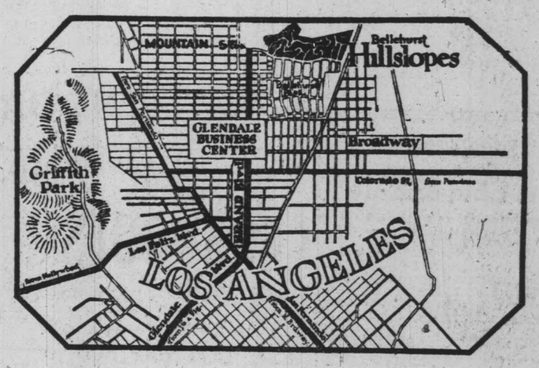
And EASY TERMS make it possible for you to carry this investment without effort, knowing that every month your property is INCREASING IN VALUE by leaps and bounds.

For the main business center of Glendale, the corner of Brand Boulevard and Broadway—a complete and up-to-date section of shops, theaters, banks, clubs and schools—is only 8 blocks away, an easy walk or a 5-minute trip by Pacific Electric trains from the foot of the hills.

And 35 minutes by automobile or fast electric trains (stopping 2 blocks from the property) will take you to the down-town center of Los Angeles—making Bellehurst Hillslopes actually closer in time to Pershing Square than Pasadena or Hollywood, lower in price, too, and far more beautiful.

Just two weeks ago this magnificent property was announced to the public. Sales to date far exceed $300,000 and streams of buyers keep coming in ever growing numbers. You will have to act promptly or it will be forever too late to buy one of these marvelous lots from us.

Their desirability as permanent homesites is the basis of their tremendous investment value. They will always be easy to resell at much higher prices than you can buy them for today—if you act quickly.



Bellehurst Hillslopes Are Easy to Reach

BY AUTOMOBILE—Drive to Glendale via Los Feliz Boulevard, Glendale Boulevard, San Fernando Road or Colorado Boulevard until you reach Glendale's principal street, Brand Boulevard. Then turn north (toward the mountains) on BRAND BOULEVARD and continue through Glendale's business district to Mountain Street, then three short blocks to the right to Bellehurst Hillslopes.

BY PACIFIC ELECTRIC—Take FRONT CAR of GLENDALE LINE TRAINS, anywhere on 6th Street between Main and Figueroa. Get off at Mountain Street in Glendale and walk three short blocks East.

Follow the Bellehurst Park Direction Arrows
